Police ask Barrio parent help to curb gang violence

Valley law enforcement agencies fearing new waves of violence from Mexican-American youth gangs are calling upon barrio residents to exert greater control over their children's activities.

Chino Police Chief Frank Meehan said detectives have information that the various Mexican-American youth gangs in Chino and Pomona are currently trying to form alliances with other valley gangs to wage war in the barrio areas of Chino, Cucamonga, Pomona, Upland and Ontario because of the latest wave of violence.

In the past two months, a teen-ager in Upland was attacked by a large number of other youths and beaten to death with bricks and tire irons, while another teen-ager in Pomona was attacked on the street and beaten to death in a similar manner.

In both Chino and Pomona, at least 10 teen-agers have been shot and wounded in related incidents, two seriously. In one case, a 7-year-old boy was shot in the chest, his brother also shot and his father stabbed while visiting relatives in Chino.

Chief Meehan and Pomona Police Chief P.P. Wallick, in their appeals to barrio residents, agreed that only a small group of teen-agers has been responsible for the more serious acts of violence of late, but other young people feeling a need for peer group recognition have unwittingly joined with the smaller, more violent group of youths.

''The current Mexican-American gang problems in Pomona and surrounding cities are a traditional activity with a portion of the young people in and around the various barrio neighborhoods. These groups are made up of a portion of neighborhood young people and result from a basic human need to belong to a peer group."

The Pomona police chief said it was unfortunate that these unlawful activities have reached the ultimate crime, the taking of a human life. "Once these gang feuds start over territory rights or other areas of dispute, they are extremely difficult to control" he said. Wallick said the basic family unit, and not the police, must try to motivate these groups into worthwhile pursuits.

Wallick said there is no easy answer to the problem. "The solution is one of moral values, family training and control and developing some neutral ground and motivation which will guide the leaders of these gangs into coexistence and peaceful endeavors," said Wallick.

"We know what is taking place at this time and can predict more of the same until those from these neighborhood communities with the influence and

Latest Senate amendments

Jobless, working moms get tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressing toward a final vote on a $30-billion tax-cut bill, the Senate today approved an additional $200 million in emergency benefits for the hard-core unemployed and a special tax break for working mothers.

On a 56-39 vote, the Senate adopted an amendment allowing working parents to subtract up to $600 a year from their federal tax bills for babysitting expenses necessary to hold down a job.

This would cost the federal Treasury $800 million a year.

A 58-37 vote allowed an extra 13 weeks of federally financed unemployment compensation for jobless workers who have exhausted all other benefits.

The Senate also voted a special tax for financially ailing corporations, but scaled down the relief to $500 million, half the sum recommended by the Finance Committee.

The principal beneficiary of this amendment would be Chrysler Corp., to the tune of about $150 million. But unlike in the committee bill, no special relief would be allowed Lockheed and Pan American World Airways.

Passage of the big recession-fighting tax cut would allow a Senate-House conference to work out final details of the bill and have it sent to President Ford by Wednesday.

The tax relief would be felt by mid-May, when the Treasury Department would mail 1974 tax rebates of up to $240 to taxpayers across the nation.

The final Senate version of the tax cut is expected to provide:

—$10 billion in rebates on 1974 taxes, with almost all families assured of a minimum $120 check and a maximum $240.

—An additional $1.7 billion refund for working families whose earned income totals less than $8,000 this year. This "earned-income credit" would be 10 per cent of taxable income up to a maximum credit of $400.

This provision, which the Senate endorsed Thursday night by a 78 to 17 vote, has the effect of offsetting the Social Security tax bite on families too poor generally to pay income taxes but whose paychecks still are subject to the Social Security withholding.

—A 4 per cent reduction in the tax rate on the first $4,000 of taxable income. This $2 billion provision is aimed at providing relief to low-and middle-income families, but virtually every family would receive at least a $40 reduction in 1975 and 1976 taxes.

—An optional $200-per-person credit against taxes instead of the current $750-per-person tax exemption. Although this provision could help taxpayers who do not itemize deductions, it is designed especially to aid larger families that do itemize. The cost is $6.1 billion for 1975.

—A $100 across-the-board government payment this year to every person who receives a Social Security or railroad retirement benefit.

—A tax credit for any person who buys a new home as a principal residence between March 13 and Dec. 31 this year. The credit would equal 5 per cent of the home's purchase price, up to a maximum credit of $2,000. Thus, a person buying a $20,000 home could subtract $1,000 from his tax bill next year. Buying a home worth $40,000 or more would reduce taxes by $2,000.

—A $7 billion tax cut for business, mainly through larger tax credits allowed firms for purchasing new equipment.

The Senate cleared the way for final passage of the tax-cut bill by compromising on the treatment of oil company taxes.

The final version of the Senate bill would repeal the oil depletion allowance outright for the major oil companies. But the allowance, which permits a company to avoid taxation on 22 per cent of the income from oil operations, would be retained for independent oil and gas producers.

Major intelligence victory, if true

Sub yields 2 nuclear torpedoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA is believed to have recovered at least two nuclear torpedo warheads in its effort last summer to raise wreckage of a Soviet submarine that sank in the Pacific Ocean, The Washington Post reported today.

The newspaper said sources described recovery of the nuclear-tipped torpedoes as a major victory for U.S. intelligence.

Meanwhile, the head of the Senate's special intelligence committee said Thursday there is a chance the panel may subpoena billionaire Howard Hughes, who contracted to build and operate the mammoth oceanographic vessel which was used in the CIA submarine-raising mission.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, made the remark in response to a question at a meeting with reporters. However, an aide to Church later said: "There's no big plan to subpoena Howard."

The Post account said the two nuclear torpedo warheads retrieved were in the portion of the Soviet submarine raised northwest of Hawaii from an ocean depth of 17,000 feet by the Hughes ship Glomar Explorer, under the CIA's direction. The sub sank in 1968.

The newspaper quoted one source as commenting on the intelligence value of the reported find:

"It makes no difference that torpedo warheads are relatively small compared to missile warheads. Any kind of warhead gives us a priceless insight into their technology and their approach to solving nuclear weapons problems."

The Soviet submarine — said to be a conventional-powered G-class craft — is believed to have been fitted with three launching tubes for nuclear-armed missiles. There has been one unconfirmed report that one of the missile warheads was recovered.

The Post also said one report "being circulated by intelligence sources on the fringe of the CIA" claims the Glomar Explorer actually retrieved the entire sunken submarine rather than just one-third of it, as most other accounts have indicated.

Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Service Committee, said Thursday he knew about the CIA submarine operation from the beginning and fully supported it.

"I would emphasize that there is nothing about this project for which any apology is needed," the Mississippi Democrat said.

Stennis, who is also a member of the panel of senior senators which oversees CIA activities, said the operation had produced valuable results and "violated no one's rights."

He added: "Rather than being criticized the CIA should be highly commended for this operation."

However, Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., a member of Church's special intelligence investigating committee, said he believes the mission, which cost more than $250 million, was "inexcusable."

He said it should be learned just how much Hughes benefited personally from what Hart called a "backroom deal" to use Hughes companies as a CIA cover for the salvage effort.

Mild weather greets Spring across nation

By Associated Press

Spring's arrival was dampened by rain today in parts of the Northwest, Midwest and Northeast, but temperatures were unseasonably mild over most of the country from the Plains to the Atlantic.

Snow sifted into northern Minnesota and northern New England, and travelers were advised of locally heavy snow in the Oregon Cascades.

Rainfall generally was light in showers from eastern Iowa into Wisconsin and Illinois. In the Northeast, 2 inches of rain soaked Hartford, Conn., and Mumford, Maine, Thursday before tapering off during the night.

Bill goes to Assembly

State Senate vote cuts marijuana penalties

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate has narrowly approved legislation cutting penalties for posession of small amounts of marijuana to the level of an expensive traffic ticket.

Passage came Thursday despite arguments by one lawmaker that the bill all but legalized pot use.

"It's such a short step away from legalization that I don't think it's going to kid many people," said Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach.

"By doing this we are really saying to the people of this state: 'We don't think this is such a bad thing to do. You go out and use marijuana.'"

Supporters said the bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, would make the punishment for marijuana possession fit the crime and free police to handle violent lawbreakers.

"The question is not whether we are legalizing marijuana," said Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco. "The only issue before us here today is whether or not the penalities for use of marijuana should be reduced — whether the penalities should fit the crime."

Under the bill persons found with one ounce or less of marijuana would be given a citation instead of being arrested and could be fined up to $100 if found guilty.

Those charged with possession of more than an ounce could receive up to six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Marijuana possession can now be treated as either a misdemeanor or felony, with a maxiumum penalty of 10 years in prison. Currently 203 persons are serving time in state prisons for possession of the illegal weed.

The Senate's 21-16 vote gave the Moscone bill the bare majority it needed to get out of the 40-member upper house.

But bill supporters picked up the 21st vote only after two senators switched their stands and the clerk repeatedly polled non-voting members. Sen. James Wedworth, D-Hawthorne, finally cast the decisive vote.

The bill now goes to the Assembly, where its co-author, Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, says he expects it to get a "favorable reception."

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has said several times that he would sign legislation providing possession penalties equal to those in the Moscone bill.

Bills cutting the penalities for marijuana use were vetoed in the past by former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Senators argued for more than an hour over the measure, with critics claiming the bill's lower penalties would encourage marijuana use.

"You are going to see more young people engaged in the use of marijuana if this bill becomes law," said Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia. "There's no doubt about it."

But Moscone said that Oregon had experienced no overall increase in marijuana smoking after it went to a citation system.

"And the majority of people who use marijuana in California are not juveniles," he added. "They're adults."

Electronic device can tell if aliens being smuggled in WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is developing a new electronic device for U.S. Border Patrol agents to detect persons being smuggled into the country inside cars or trucks.

The machine, still undergoing refinements, operates on the same principle used to monitor earthquakes. It is activated by air wave vibrations created by slight muscular movements, including heart beats and the involuntary muscular action of the digestive tract.

Immigration and Naturalization Service authorities responsible for keeping illegal aliens out of the United States think the device is foolproof. It was displayed at two House hearings this week.

The agency claims the device will tell its agents along the Mexican and Canadian borders within 15 seconds whether illegal aliens are hidden in a vehicle awaiting entry into the United States.

It will permit agents to forego searching under seats, in trunks and in loaded vans, traditional hiding places favored by smugglers trying to carry aliens illegally across the border, agency spokesmen said.

At stations where thousands of vehicles cross each day, the device frequently could reduce the delays encountered by commuters, tourists and others seeking entry into the United States, spokesmen added.

The device's final form has not been established, but units recently displayed were the size of a cigar box.

Bomb hidden in book goes off in Belfast cafe; 38 injured

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb hidden in a textbook exploded at a crowded cafe during the busy lunch hour today, injuring 38 persons, many of them schoolchildren, police said.

They said most of the injuries were minor cuts caused by flying glass.

The cafe, Victor's, is at the bottom of the predominantly Catholic Falls Road and is a hangout for pupils from three or four Catholic schools in the area, including the Christian Brothers high school.

A police spokesman said the relatively small explosive device was concealed in a mathematics textbook which was left on a cafe table wrapped in brown paper.

He said a waitress noticed it and turned it over to the cafe owner, who started to open the package, saw wires sticking out and threw it to the floor. It exploded on impact.

Move to hike business tax in state fails by two votes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lobbyists for banks, corporations and insurance companies helped defeat a bill that would have made it easier to increase state taxes on those businesses, the measure's author says.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Bill Greene fell two votes short of the two-thirds margin needed for approval by the Assembly Thursday.

"They were working at Frank Fats (a popular Capitol restaurant) last night into the wee hours of the morning," the Los Angeles Democrat told reporters after the 52-23 tally.

"The banks and those guys made the issue more attractive," he said, although he refused to say exactly what the lobbyists had done.

The amendment, backed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., would have permitted increases in state taxes on banks, corporations and insurance companies by a majority vote of the legislature, the same margin required to raise personal and sales taxes.

Currently, a two-thirds majority is needed.

Greene claimed he saw Assemblyman Art Torres, another Los Angeles Democrat, eating dinner at Fats with Don Brown, a lobbyist who is a conduit for Howard Hughes campaign contributions.

Both Brown and Torres, who voted against the measure, denied emphatically they had discussed the legislation.

"He's an old friend of mine," Brown said. "I have not lobbied the bill at all."

Torres said they talked about the new movie "Shampoo."

After the bill's defeat, Brown said in a statement it would take still more time and effort to end the tax privilege.

Another aspect of the defeat was that Assemblyman Willie Brown, a coauthor of similar bills in the past, refrained from voting on the amendment.

The San Francisco Democrat told reporters he simply decided not to vote for the bill unless it had 53 votes and needed just his vote to win final passage.

Last year, Greene was a key vote for Leo McCarthy in his successful battle with Brown for the Assembly speakership.

But Brown denied the speakership had anything to do with his action.

"The speakership fight has been over so long it isn't funny," he said.

Greene said his amendment is dead for the year. A similar measure, authored by Sen. John Dunlap, D-Napa, awaits hearing in the Senate.

Greene's measure was ACA 4.

One plan asks 10% hike

Legislature pay boosts sought

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Who should decide whether legislators get more pay, the legislature or the public?

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy wants salaries boosted, but he proposes that a citizens' committee make the decision.

Senate President pro tem James Mills, D-San Diego, said Thursday he is pushing a bill from the Senate Rules Committee that would provide a $2,212 cost-of-living raise for California's 120 legislators.

Lawmakers' pay would go from $21,120 to $23,332 a year effective Dec. 6, 1976, under the Senate bill.

"I think we ought to go to a decent salary and eliminate the fringe benefits" says McCarthy, D-San Francisco.

"There are many members who are pressed economically."

McCarthy said bigger salaries to incorporate such fringe benefits as state-leased cars, gasoline credit cards and per diem allowances would stamp out what he feels is petty controversy over alleged misuse.

The most recent controversy was the loan by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, of his official state car to his estranged wife in Kansas. Legislators also have used gasoline credit cards during re-election campaigns.

McCarthy said he would favor keeping is a special travel allowance for Southern California legislators.

The Senate committee released a study saying legislators have taken a cost-of-living beating compared to private professionals and other state employes.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said the cost of living has increased 43.9 per cent since 1967, but legislators' pay has increased only 32 per cent in that time. Salaries of professional private employes have gone up 49.7 per cent and salaries of comparable state employes have risen 58 per cent in the same period, Post said.

MWD accused of huge overcharge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Taxpayers in the Metropolitan Water District have been overcharged $145.3 million by the district, according to Mayor Tom Bradley and Councilman Ernani Bernardi.

Bradley and Bernardi called for an investigation Thursday to provide the basis for a court action that would force the MWD to repay the taxpayers.

Bradley and Bernardi said the MWD's staff had admitted overcharging taxpayers between fiscal years 1960-61 and 1973-74.

Housing bill passes its first test easily

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Millions of dollars would be poured into construction of housing for low and moderate income Californians under a bill clearing an Assembly committee test.

The Assembly Housing and Community Development Committee voted 12-1 Thursday for the bill, sending it to its next test before the Ways and Means Committee.

It provides up to $450 million in state-issued revenue bonds and puts a $500 million bond issue on the June, 1976, ballot to replace the revenue bonds. The revenue from bond sales would finance loans for low and moderate income housing.

LAND BARGAINING Indian representatives and attorneys for the land owner confer about the Indian seizure of property Thursday. An armed group occupied the land, regarded as a sacred burial site. After an all day bargaining session, the owner agreed to sell it if the Indians could raise $17,500.

Armed group offered Watsonville land for $71,500

Owner yields to Indians who seized burial site

WATSONVILLE (AP) — A day-long confrontation between heavily armed Indians occupying a sacred burial site and deputies holding an eviction notice ended quietly when the property's owner agreed to sell the land.

"We have smoked the pipe of peace," Robert Kemp, attorney for property owner Aaron Berman, said late Thursday after an hour and a half of negotiations.

About 50 Indians and supporters had taken control of the roughly two-acre site earlier in the day to protest Berman's plan to build warehouses for scrap metal.

The Indians said the location was a 1,500-year-old Indian burial ground and was considered sacred.

Kemp said Berman agreed to put the land in escrow for one year to give the Indians time to raise $17,500 to purchase the property. The Indians said they would appeal for public donations.

George Martin, a representative of the American Indian Movement, said the Indians reluctantly agreed to the compromise.

"It's a high price to keep the peace, but we are relieved there was no bloodshed," he said. Martin had earlier displayed an arsenal of shotguns, M-1 rifles and ammunition to resist an eviction ordered by a judge.

"I can't say we're happy," he said after the agreement was reached. "We avoided a confrontation but we had to give up a lot to get a pile of land. We feel it should have been donated."

Tension had been mounting since the discovery last weekend of human bones. The Indians immediately established a campsite on the knoll-dotted countryside in this small coastal agricultural community about 70 miles south of San Francisco.

Berman sought and won an eviction notice which led to Thursday's confrontation.

About 25 sheriff's deputies and Watsonville police stood by while the negotiations were underway.

Claim they can't get any medical care

40 protest about overdue Medi-Cal payments

SACRAMENTO (AP) — About 40 poor people from the Stockton area came by bus to the state capital Thursday to demand that the state pay their doctors' overdue Medi-Cal bills.

State officials refused, saying it would be an unconstitutional gift of state funds, because the money was owned by the San Joaquin Foundation for Medical Care.

A doctor's wife who accompanied the delegation, Starletta Sankus, called it a "combination of rich doctors and poor people—two groups who do not have a lot of support."

"I think the people are right," she said.

They demanded that the state pay about $700,000 the doctors claim has been owed since August by the foundation. It is an experimental outfit that provided health care for about 50,000 Medi-Cal beneficiaries in San Joaquin, Tuolumne, Calaveras and Amador counties from 1968 until its contract with the state was canceled.

The state did agree to send Steven Ybarra, assistant secretary of Health and Welfare, to Stockton today to investigate reports that doctors are refusing to see Medi-Cal patients until the back bills are paid.

Ybarra said he plans to talk to hospital officials, physicians and patients.

Interim Health Director Robert Gnaizda said the contract with the foundation was cancelled after it demanded a $445,000 annual increase in its $2.1 million Medi-Cal budget.

Gnaizda said that was over the legal limits. If applied to Medi-Cal on a statewide basis, he said it would cost $200 million.

"I strongly urge all physicians and other health care providers to continue serving Medi-Cal patients under the regular fee-for-service program, which is presently serving two million Californians," Gnaizia said.

Gnaizda said he did not know why the foundation couldn't pay its doctors. He said he had no reason to believe there was anything illegal.

He praised the foundation as "nationally recognized as a pioneer for its innovative methods and for the excellent care it has provided for its enrollees."

But he said the state could not negotiate a new contract with the foundation because "the best contract the state could offer would perpetuate rather than resolve the foundation's present financial problems."

Before coming to Sacramento, the Stockton group marched several blocks in downtown Stockton from the court house to the foundation office.

Planners vote to move San Diego airport

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego's regional planning group has voted to move San Diego International Airport from much-criticized Lindbergh Field to an undeveloped site near the Mexican border.

The Comprehensive Planning Organization voted Monday to move the airport from its present downtown site to Otay Mesa, about 15 miles south of the central city.

The vote reversed an earlier stand to let the airport remain at Lindbergh Field.

For several years, the Lindbergh site has been criticized by airline pilots for its tricky approach over tall buildings. Others have complained about jet noise and crowded conditions.

Meat prices stay steady in markets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Supermarket prices for beef, poultry and seafood remained relatively steady this week because of limited demand, a shopping survey shows.

The average price of top sirloin was $2.01 per pound, compared to a high of $2.79 earlier in the year and an average of $2.27 at this time last year. Turkey continued to be a good value, accoding to the survey of 20 southern California supermarket chains.

With Easter shopping time approaching, supermarkets were expected to have flowers and potted plants in abundance, and prices were about the same as they were last year.

Pork prices, which have been rising for some time, showed signs of leveling off. Loin cuts dropped slightly in price, but ham was somewhat higher than it was a year ago.

In the produce department, avocadoes, potatoes, pears and oranges were good buys this week.

The index of food prices, based on a figure of 100 for the cost of a representative basket of foods in January, 1974, stood at 97.7.

Smith convicted of 2 campaign gift counts; jury undecided on Nixon link

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Once powerful banker and longtime Republican backer C. Arnholt Smith has lost the first of his court battles with the federal government.

C. ARNHOLT SMITH

The 76-year-old financier was convicted Thursday of instigating illegal campaign contributions to former California Republican Sen. George Murphy.

A six-man, six-woman jury failed to reach a verdict on two other counts involving alleged corporate contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon. A fifth count was dismissed by U.S. District Court Judge Robert H. Schnacke.

Schnacke came from San Francisco to hear the case. A judge from outside San Diego had been requested by local federal judges "because Mr. Smith was such an influential figure around town," said a court spokesman.

The jury also could not agree on a verdict on another three counts against Sovereign State Capital, Inc., a Smith-controlled firm and a codefendent in the case.

The two counts on which Smith was convicted are misdemeanors and carry $5,000 each in fines.

Schnacke set sentencing for April 21.

Seven days before that, Smith is scheduled go on trial again in federal court, this time for bank fraud.

Federal prosecutors charged that Smith used his colleagues to channel Sovereign State monday to the Murphy and Nixon campaigns, recording the contributions on the company books as "advances" to the individuals.

Two former officers of Smith's U.S. National Bank testified during the trial that Smith directed them to send checks to Murphy and promised that they'd be reimbursed.

Former U.S. National President Richard Woltman and bank Marketing Vice President Norman Foster said they sent $3,000 and $1,000, respectively, to the Murphy campaign in 1970.

Both said they were later repaid in full by Sovereign State. The government produced copies of Sovereign State check stubs and vouchers to the two men, as well as bank records showing they deposited payments.

Smith denied soliciting the donations and said he never authorized Sovereign State to make political contributions. He also denied authorizing the "advances," or having any ownership or control of Sovereign State.

Smith added that he had personally given $203,000 to the Nixon campaign and $8,000 to the Murphy campaign.

Federal attorneys never cross-examined Smith.

Chess champ to play all comers

David Strauss, the California state chess champion, will play all comers at the Ontario Chess Club tonight.

He will present a short talk on chess starting at 7:30, and will begin the exhibition at 8 p.m.

Strauss, of Riverside, has won or tied for first place in all of Southern California's most prestigious tournaments.

The charge for playing Strauss is $1.50, which will be refunded to any players who beat him. The speech is free.

The club meets Friday evenings at the recreation building at 217 S. Lemon, Ontario.

Bribe case sentence

Meat firm must hire, train 3 jobless ex-cons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A meat packing company must hire and train at least three "hard-core unemployable" exconvicts as part of its sentence for trying to bribe a government meat inspector.

The unusual sentence was given Thursday to Kansas City Meat Co., of Los Angeles by U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson.

The judge did not impose a fine but ordered the training program to continue for two of the three-year probation period. Kansas City Meat Co. must bear the cost of the program.

The company's president, Frank Goldstein, told the judge, "I appreciate the opportunity for the Kansas City Meat Co. to do a public service and I can assure the court that we will do an outstanding job."

The firm pleaded guilty on Feb. 11 to offering a bribe to a government inspector to influence the grading of beef at the plant.

The judge said the federal probation office will assist in the program and recommend persons to be hired.

Ferguson added that he hoped other meat packing firms would set up similar programs.

"They will be performing a most beneficial and enlightened program to benefit those people who need a second chance and haven't found it," he said.

Lon Nol to leave Cambodia in two weeks, sources say

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Diplomatic and government sources said today that President Lon Nol will depart Cambodia shortly and that it will be a hopeful step toward negotations with the Communist-led rebels.

Sources in Washington said he will leave within two weeks.

The reports came as Premier Long Boret formed a new cabinet after 11 days of infighting and U.S. sources said the 30day emergency airlift to besieged Phnom Penh will be extended at least another month.

Rebel gunners rained at least 13 rockets into the airport and one of them hit near a U.S. cargo jet, killing five Cambodians working for the U.S. airlift and wounding at least 17, field reports said. No American personnel or planes were hit, but the airlift was suspended for about an hour, they added.

Reliable diplomatic and Cambodian government sources said the question of Lon Nol's departure was discussed at several high-level meetings last week. One meeting was attended by the Cambodian leader and diplomatic representatives of Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore and the Philippines, they said.

U.S: Ambassaodr John Gunther Dean also met with the Asian representatives as well as the Japanese ambassador in Phnom Penh concerning the departure, the sources said. Dean told a visiting U.S. congressional delegation three weeks ago that Lon Nol would step down if that move would bring peace to Cambodia.

The new cabinet was balanced between rival factions of the ruling elite but contained no new figures who could lead possible negotiations with the insurgents. One top politican described it as "more or less a caretaker government" which would soon be dissolved and followed by one more acceptable to the Khmer Rouge insurgents.

According to diplomatic sources in Washington, leaders of the insurgent Khmer Rouge would be invited to enter Phnom Penh and form a new government after Lon Nol left the country.

High State Department officials described the diplomatic reports of Lon Nol's departure within two weeks as speculative. But the officials said Lon Nol would be granted a visa to enter the United States if he requested one.

Meanwhile, deposed Cambodian ruler Prince Norodom Sihanouk was quoted as saying that Lon Nol and six other present or former Cambodian leaders will be hanged if they are captured by insurgent forces attacking the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

The Far Eastern Economic Review, based in Hong Kong, quoted Sihanouk in as saying in Peking that the men were "the seven traitors."

The 30-day emergency U.S. airlift to besieged Phnom Penh and the Cambodian army will be extended for at least another month, U.S. sources said today.

The funds for extension of the supply operation after March 27 will come from about $29 million in the Commodity Import Program of the U.S. Agency for International Development, the sources said.

This money was set aside to finance the import of goods and machinery into Phnom Penh, but such imports have not been possible since the end of December because of the Khmer Rouge's blockade on the Mekong river.

The estimated cost of the first month of the airlift of rice, fuel and ammunition by American charter airlines is $10.1 million.

Red rocket kills 5, wounds 17 in airlift

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A rebel rocket killed five Cambodian cargo handlers for the U.S. airlift and wounded at least 17 at Phnom Penh airport today, field reports said.

The rocket exploded near a U.S. cargo jet, but no American personnel or planes were hit, the reports said. The airlift was suspended for about one hour as at least 13 rockets slammed into the airfield during the afternoon, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The Kissinger shuttle:

Agreement near on 4 key issues

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned from Egypt today with four major elements of a Sinai agreement close to being settled, U.S. officials said.

Still unresolved, however, was the principal issue of how far Israel will pull back and whether it will give up the Mitla and Gidi passes and the Abu Rudeis oil field, newsmen were told.

"We are not at the brink of an agreement," one official said as Kissinger flew in from Aswan for a meeting here with the Israeli negotiating team.

The key items nearing completion are:

—Both sides would give "certain assurances" only to the United States while others would be made public.

—A mutual obligation by Israel and Egypt that they would not resort to force. That is a modification of the nonbelligerency pledge sought by Israel but turned down by President Anwar Sadat.

—The Israeli withdrawal — however deep it is — would be carried out in a number of steps.

—United Nations forces would take over most — but not all — of the territory given up by Israel.

American officials aboard Kissinger's U.S. Air Force jet cautioned that the negotiations could still deadlock, particularly over the withdrawal line.

However, even on this contested point, slow progress is being claimed. At both ends of the "diplomatic shuttle" the military chiefs of staff are participating in the talks and the two sides are working with Kissinger over maps.

Kissinger met with Sadat for 2½ hours at his Upper Nile villa Thursday night.

Another S. Viet district capital falls to rebels

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The South Vietnamese government lost another district capital in the Central Highlands today and one of the bases guarding the outer western approaches to Saigon.

The government threw more than 1,000 paratroopers into the defense of its capital, rushing them to positions within 10 miles of the city on the western flanks. The reinforcements were flown down from the northern provinces around Hue which President Nguyen Van Thieu is abandoning.

Sharp fighting was reported south of Hue, the former imperial capital on the north coast. Field reports said about 80 per cent of the city's 200,000 people had fled south toward Da Nang, 40 miles down the coast.

Military sources said the district capital of Kien Duc, in the lower Central Highlands, was lost after a 500-round artillery barrage and an infantry assault. The fall of the town threatened to cost the government the entire province of Quang Duc.

The Saigon government has already written off four Kontum, Pleiku Darlac and Phu Bon provinces in the highlands, plus Quang Tri and Thua Thien in the north and Phuoc Long and Binh Long, north of Saigon.

Government forces have abandoned all this territory except Hue and Thua Thien, and they are in the process of pulling out of there.

In the Saigon region, tank-led North Vietnamese forces drove a militia force from the Duc Hue base camp near the Cambodian border 30 miles northwest of the capital. The Saigon command said the militiamen retreated after the attack knocked out their radio communications.

In last two weeks, Hanoi claims

Fourth of S. Viet taken over by Cong

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Hanoi said today that within the last two weeks the Viet Cong has taken over approximately a quarter of South Vietnam with a population of nearly one million. It also said they have established governing bodies in Ban Me Thuot, capital of Darlac Province in the central highlands.

"Saigon is conducting extermination bombings of many of the district towns and provincial capitals abandoned in recent days by Saigon troops," the broadcast claimed.

"Musclemen are also being used to compel people to follow the retreating army. Hundreds of thousands of people have been pushed into disguised concentration camps newly built with U.S. aid, in the provinces of Tay Ninh, Thua Thien, and Quang Tri."

The broadcast said from March 5-20, the Viet Cong "put out of combat nearly 40,000 enemy troops, wiping out one infantry division, two multibattalion groups of rangers, two armor regiments and 25 infantry battalions, capturing thousands of enemy troops, among them hundreds of noncoms and company and field officers."

It said the Viet Cong also seized nearly 10,000 guns, including 100 artillery pieces, thousands of tons of ammunition, 600 military vehicles, among them nearly 50 tanks and armored cars.

"About 1,100 other military vehicles were destroyed, some 40 aircraft were shot down or destroyed on the ground, and aircraft engines were blasted," the broadcast added.

"A people's revolutionary administrative commission" has been set up in the Central Highlands province of Darlac and a "military management commission" in Ban Me Thuot, both headed by Col. Y Bloc Eban, the radio said.

Darlac is one of eight provinces abandoned by the Saigon government and Ban Me Thuot, the capital, is where a U.S. Embassy official and eight American missionaries have been trapped for weeks.

Man fleeing teen-age robbers shot at

A Pomona man was robbed by two armed teen-agers wearing ski masks who confronted him near the garage area of his apartment building and then accompanied him to his rooms where he surrendered the cash.

The victim, Raymond L. Ottaway, 37, 310 E. Foothill Blvd., said that after he was robbed Wednesday night he was forced to accompany the pair back to his car. Along the way he ran and said he heard two shots fired, presumably at him.

The robbers were described as Negroes about 14 or 15. One wearing a blue ski mask was 5 feet 4, weighed 130 pounds and had on a maroon jacket and blue jeans. He was armed with a revolver. The other wore a maroon ski mask and had a rifle. They fled over a wall.

A POMONA bookstore was robbed late Thursday afternoon by a man who never showed a weapon, police reported.

The holdup was at Walden's Book Store, 1452 Indian Hill Village, where assistant manager Patricia Miller, 21, was coerced into opening the cash register for the man. She and another employe were forced to remain in the office for a few minutes after the robbery, police said.

The robber was described as a Caucasian between 20 and 24, 5 feet 6 with dark-brown, shoulder-length hair and a mustache. He wore blue jeans and a tan work shirt.

An Omaha, Neb., couple have been arrested by ONTARIO police in connection with the burglary of an apartment at 1352 W. Fifth St. on Feb. 20.

Several rings valued at over $500 were taken in the burglary.

Police said William Petersen, 33, and his wife, Sandra, 25, were booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of burglary and grand theft auto after they were apprehended by security officers at the Los Angeles Veterans Administration Hospital.

Detectives said a warrant was issued for the couple after the grandson of the elderly woman whose apartment was burglarized, managed to get a license number of the suspect's car. The woman's grandson told officers that when he and his grandmother came home on Feb. 20 he saw two people run from the patio. He followed the suspects and saw them drive away.

The elderly woman discovered later that her apartment had been burglarized and several rings were missing.

Police said they recovered some of the loot taken in the Fifth Street apartment burglary and other items and cash possibly taken in other burglaries. The car the couple was driving at the time of their apprehension in Los Angeles, was reported stolen out of Omaha, Neb. Omaha police are also investigating several burglaries in their city that may have been committed by the suspects.

respect of these youths step forward and provide the necessary leadership to stop the present wave of gang violence."

Chief Meehan said the periodic rivalry "presents itself every four or five years, when a new group of youngsters want to manifest their manhood."

Usually the triggering effect is a very trivial matter, but it builds up to very violent proportions quickly he said.

"Police agencies are hard-pressed to stop this kind of thing without the full and complete cooperation of the communities involved. The real answer to stopping this vicious brutality lies with the parents of the involved children," said Meehan. He suggested that they keep a close eye on their youngsters.

If the parents know their children are hanging around with youths involved in the current wave of violence, they should make every effort to remove them for the group. If all parents did this, there would be no groups bent on violence, he added.

"I would urgently request that parents observing carloads of youths travelling between the communities notify their local police immediately, so they can pass the word to other police departments to intercept the youths and perhaps avoid any further tradgedy.

"One point, I think should be remembered, is that this violence has resulted in death. Any effort at all exerted by the community will have a positive effect.

"If this kind of thing is going to be permanently solved, its going to take the efforts of all segments of the community working in concert."

Police departments presently are involved in working with community groups dedicated to fostering peaceful coexistence among these embattled youths, according to the police chiefs.

The chiefs joined in saying while all law enforcement agencies are involved in these endeavors and are working together to curb the violence, leadership, of necessity, must come from within the gangs and from the law-abiding citizens in the community.

Forced to monitor mail--inspector

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief U. S. Postal Inspector William J. Cotter says in testimony released today that he was ordered in 1969 to allow the Central Intelligence Agency to continue monitoring private mail to and from the Soviet Union even though he tried to halt the practice.

But Cotter said he did succeed in getting the practice halted four years later.

Cotter told the House civil rights subcommittee in a secret session last Tuesday that former Postmaster General Winton Blount, after meeting with then-CIA Director Richard Helms, ordered him to allow the CIA inspections to continue in 1969.

Cotter said he understood that when he first objected then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell also "was briefed and thought — I understand — the project was fine."

Cotter also said he thought the White House knew of the CIA mail surveillance over the years, but that he did not know for sure.

The CIA has said it inspected mail to and from the some Communist nations for 20 years, starting in 1953, and Cotter testified that former Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and J. Edward Day were told about it.

However, Cotter indicated that he did not think that Summerfield and Day knew that some of the letters would actually be opened.

CIA agents went through sacks of U.S. mail to and from the Soviet Union at what is now John F. Kennedy International Airport and opened and copied some of the letters, Cotter said.

The CIA also monitored mail to and from mainland China at San Francisco but were not authorized to open any letters, Cotter said.

He said it is possible foreign mail was monitored by the CIA in other cities as well but that he does not know for certain.

Cotter, a former CIA agent, told the subcommittee that he learned about 1955 that letters were being opened by the CIA at the New York airport and that he began trying to halt the operation when he became chief U. S. postal inspector in 1969.

Cotter said he told Helms he wanted the mail surveillance either approved by high authority or halted.

Three days later, he said, Blount called him and said, "I had a meeting with your former boss and carry on with the project."

Cotter said he finally told the CIA in 1973 to "get superior approval for this thing or discontinue it."

"They suspended it and that's the end of the project," Cotter said.

Farm bill okay could hike dairy prices $495 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee, acting with unusual haste, approved today a farm bill that opponents say could raise the prices of dairy products by $495 million within a year.

The Senate panel used a measure passed less than 24 hours earlier by the House as the basis for its bill. It accepted most of the House bill but raised government support for the dairy and cotton industries.

It also made the bill effective over three years, rather than one, as in the House measure.

By acting quickly, the committee hoped the bill could be taken up by the full Senate early next week, before it begins an Easter recess.

But because the Senate version differs from that approved by the House, there was little likelihood that a bill could be approved by a conference committee before the recess begins, delaying its delivery to President Ford.

The bill, approved by the House Thursday 259 to 162, would award $350 million to cotton producers, $50 million to dairy farmers and $70 million to grain growers, farm experts estimated.

The bill would be in effect one year and is opposed by the Agriculture Department. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has said he will recommend that President Ford veto the measure. The House margin of approval was 22 votes short of the two-thirds required to override a veto if the same number of House members were voting.

The department estimated the bill could raise the retail price of milk by 6 cents a gallon, butter by 15 cents a pound and cheese by 7 cents a pound, for an estimated increase of $495 million in consumer costs by this time next year.

The bill's backers challenged this figure during House debate, asserting inflation would account for most of the expected price increases.

The Agriculture Department earlier estimated that the total cost of the bill could reach $953 million.

The bill sets new target prices for various crops which would be guaranteed by the government. If the free market price for a commodity fell below the target price set by law, the government could make up the difference to farmers.

Obituaries

Percy D. Thayer

Percy D. Thayer of 2610 Magella Ave., La Werne, died Thursday morning in a local convalescent hospital following a year of illness.

Mr. Thayer was born Sept. 13, 1899 in Rush City, Minn. He came to California from St. Paul, Minn., in 1942 and moved to La Verne from Los Angeles in 1964.

Loud rock music a health hazard?

CALIFORNIA, Pa. (AP) — Super-loud rock music is a health hazard and may be illegal under certain conditions, according to a safety consultant.

Randall Davidson, who heads a private firm here called the International Safety Institute, says he has measured the sound levels at hundreds of nightclubs and discotheques across the country.

He says bands often play at a decibel level between the rumble of a subway train and the roar of a jet plane at takeoff.

In numbers, that comes out above the allowable limit of 115 decibels for 15 minutes specified under the federal Occupational Safety and Health Standards Act of 1970, he says.

Discotheque patrons are not covered by the law, but club employes are.

"I've seen kids who would come out of those places and not be able to hear for two or three days," said Davidson. "It causes high blood pressure, migraine headaches and all the stomach problems that go along with being upset."

Dr. F.A. Van Atta, senior scientist of the Labor Department division charged with enforcing the act, said strict enforcement of noise standards in discotheques isn't likely, however. Nationwide, there are 800 inspectors to investigate an estimated 2.4 million places of business for all types of safety hazards, and loud music in nightclubs isn't a high priority, he said.

Scientists have said for some time that noise levels attained by loud rock bands may cause hearing loss. Dr. David Lipscomb, director of the noise research laboratory at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, says a significant number of people with measurable hearing loss were found in testing more than 7,000 young people since 1967.

"They have the hearing of a 40-year-old person," he said.

Dr. Ken Stewart, director of the Environmental Acoustics Program at the University of Pittsburgh, said the sound assaults the 6,000 or so nerve cells in each ear and kills some off irreplaceably.

Carter can see 2 Southerners in Cal primary

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — It could be two Southerners — former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and current Alabama Gov. George Wallace — as the top two contenders in the California primary, Carter says.

"By the time we get to the bigger states like California and New York it'll be a two-person confrontation and I intend to be one of them," Carter told a news conference recently.

Carter, on a California tour, added "I think Wallace will come out of Florida still viable since his support is so broad."

Carter said he will make an all-out effort to win the California primary, adding he expected to be helped in the state by his experience in defense and foreign affairs — plus his newcomer status on the national political scene.

Washington plans pitch for movies

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—The State of Washington is going all out to induce the motion picture industry to shoot more films on location in Washington, the Department of Commerce and Economic Development reports.

Hank Pearson, coordinator for the department's motion picture bureau, said he and others will be in Los Angeles April 1 to make a pitch to directors and producers.

"Our presentation will include a 15-minute film giving an overview of the state and the potential for movie sites," said Pearson.

He said invitations have been sent to nearly 200 producers and directors and that answers have been received from about 100.

Cyclamates may not cause cancer, but...

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration wants a panel of scientists to review the 1969 ban on cyclamate because of growing doubts that the artificial sweetener causes cancer.

However, the FDA said Wednesday that even if cyclamate is cleared of suspicion as a cancer-causing chemical, resumed use would have to be severely restricted because of studies suggesting that the sugar substitute causes testicles to shrink in male rats.

Food and Drug Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt said many scientists now believe that the original determination that cyclamate causes cancer was erroneous, but that another group continues to believe the two studies which led to the ban cannot be discounted.

Schmidt said in a letter to National Cancer Institute Director Frank J. Rauscher Jr. that a scientific committee should "review all of the scientific studies now available and ... recommend whether that earlier determination (the 1969 ban) should be affirmed or reversed."

"A re-evaluation of this matter is important because it has become of substantial interest to the public and the Congress, and is particularly of interest to diabetics who wish to have available a safe and palatable sweetener," Schmidt said.

The commissioner said enormous public pressures have been brought on the FDA since Abbott Laboratories petitoned for permission to resume marketing cyclamate.

In a letter to Abbott, the FDA said it was rescinding its request for the firm to withdraw the petition because of "sufficient additional information and new points of view concerning the old information."

However, Richard J. Ronk, director of the FDA division of food and color additives, said the letter did not give Abbott permission to resume marketing cyclamate.

Ronk said studies involving rats fed cyclamates indicated that the sweetener or its metabolite, cyclohexylamin, can cause testicular atrophy in rats, a decrease in the number of births and diminished growth in baby rats.

Laxatives not nature's way

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Food and Drug Administration panel of outside scientists said today that laxatives, contrary to commercials, are not "nature's way."

In fact, after a lengthy study, the scientists judged as safe and effective only 50 of the 101 ingredients found in 25,000 different brands of nonprescription laxatives and drugs sold to stop diarrhea and induce or prevent vomiting.

The panel said 30 other ingredients need further study and 21 are either unsafe or ineffective.

"It is not considered natural to take any laxative," the panel's report said, and there is widespread misuse by Americans of the laxatives they buy without a doctor's prescription.

"Prolonged laxative use can in some instances seriously impair normal bowel function. Use of laxatives for acute abdominal pain, vomiting and other digestive tract symptoms can lead to serious life-threatening situations," the panel said.

The best treatment for constipation is proper diet, plenty of drinking water and quick action when nature calls, it said.

The panel recommended that laxative labels include warnings of possible cancer if changes in bowel habits persist for more than two weeks and admonitions not to use laxatives more than one week without a doctor's advice or when abdominal pain, nausea or vomiting are present.

Singled out for special warnings were two long-time favorite laxatives, castor oil and mineral oil. The panel said castor oil should be taken only infrequently, and mineral oil shouldn't be combined with other laxatives or certain other drugs.

The panel said the FDA should prohibit label claims that laxatives are natural, or that they relieve indigestion, excessive belching, after-meal discomfort, headaches or "biliousness."

The FDA said the panel's report will be open for public comment the next 120 days before issuance of a monograph or class standard, which would require manufacturers to reformulate their products to conform or conduct studies to continue using ingredients not judged safe and effective.

The FDA said at a news briefing today that the makers of Pepto-Bismol and Carter's Little Pills were reformulating their products to remove ingredients of questionable safety and effectiveness.

Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt said, "There is not, in our view, a hazardous product out there now."

He said drugs containing ingredients judged unsafe or ineffective will have six months, following publication of the monograph, to either reformulate or stop marketing those drugs.

Manufacturers of drugs containing ingredients of questionable safety and effectiveness will be given two years to conduct further studies.

A-plant security measures studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agency that regulates the nation's nuclear industry says the floor plans of factories that produce nuclear fuel cannot be kept secret.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, reviewing security in plants producing nuclear fuels, found that general plot plans and floor plans are "generally not withheld from public disclosure."

The review was prompted by revelations in a Public Broadcasting Service television program, "The Plutonium Connection," that some security information about a Kerr-McGee Corp. nuclear fuel plant in Oklahoma was available in the commission's public document room in Washington.

The television program indicated that the material was available to anyone attempting to enter the plant surreptitiously or to someone trying to steal fuel to make a bomb.

Information available to the public also includes data about the location and kind of security locks at the Kerr-McGee plant. This information, "though not of a highly critical value, should have been withheld from public disclosure," the commission's chairman, William A. Anders, said in a letter to Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.

Anders revealed in the letter that a review of security procedures was under way. "A study is now being conducted under the aegis of the National Security Council to determine what, if any, safeguards-related information should be withheld from public disclosure in the interest of national security and ways by which such information can be withheld," he wrote.

Anders said in the letter that security plans, including information identifying control and accounting procedures for safeguarding special nuclear material, would be withheld from public disclosure.

"Other information used in connection with the safety and environmental licensing reviews, such as plot plans and floor plans for plants," is not withheld, he said.

"Such information is not presently classified in the interest of national security and general details of plot plans and floor plans would be difficult to control as classified information," Anders wrote. "For example, plot layouts could be sketched or photographed while flying over or passing by the plant," he wrote.

"Floor plans are reviewed by many contractors and construction staffs who have access to the plans for purposes such as electric wiring and installation of plumbing and ventilation piping and equipment."

The possibility of nuclear theft was conceded Wednesday by Ralph W. Deuster, president of Nuclear Fuel Services Inc., of Rockville, Md.

Trans-Alaska pipeline

Lay first section of pipe next week

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The $6 billion trans-Alaska pipeline is finally going to have some pipe laid.

Billions of dollars and millions of man hours after the biggest manmade project in history began, Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. has announced the first regular section of pipe is scheduled to be installed in Alaskan soil next Tuesday.

A 1,900-foot ditch has been gouged out of the Tonsina River and its flood plain 74 miles north of the ice-free port of Valdez. That small town on the state's southern coast is the terminal for the 798-mile pipeline which will cross tundra and mountains from its start at oil rich Prudhoe Bay.

Tuesday's ceremonies will not be the first time pipe has been put in place along the route, however. A small test section was installed near Fairbanks late last year to enable engineers to check its parts and performance during the biting arctic winter. The test section, which was elevated on vertical supports, eventually will be incorporated into the final product.

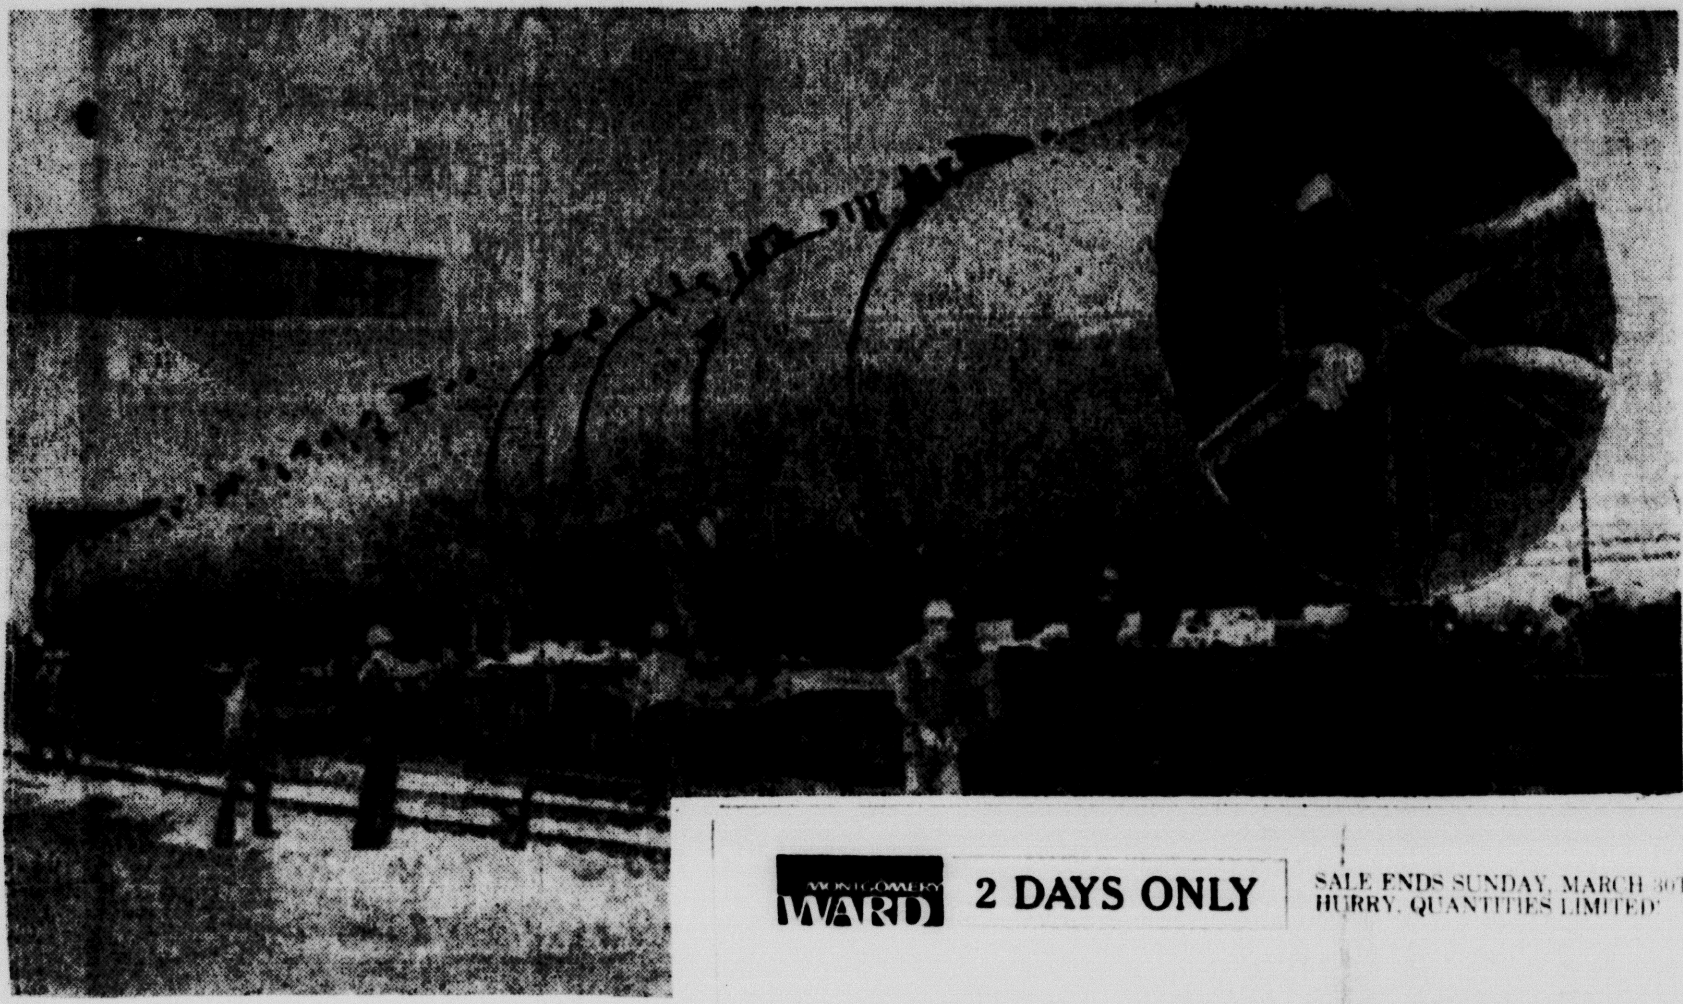
Alyeska spokesman Bruce Dobler said three sections of pipe measuring 600 feet, 500 feet and 800 feet, respectively, have been strung alongside the Tonsina ditch, which includes 110 feet of active river channel.

Water tests now are under way to insure that pressurized liquid is safely tight welds. Each section of the 48-inch-wide pipe is 40 feet long. It initially is welded into 80-foot lengths for transport by trailers from various storage areas along the route.

When the pipe is fully tested and the tractors ready to place it in the 15-to 18-foot-deep ditch, the three sections will be welded together. Once the pipe is in place, the ditch will be covered and the riverbed restored to its natural state, the spokesman said.

About half the final pipeline will be buried but the rest will be raised above ground to protect delicate tundra north of the Yukon.

The pipeline itself is scheduled to be finished in the fall of 1976, with testing planned for that winter.



LARGEST LOAD — Workers at Riley-Beaird Corp. in Shreveport, La., make final adjustments on 235-foot cracking tower destined for a Houston refinery. Tower is the longest load ever carried by a railroad. Tower required several heavy duty, 12-axle cars to carry it on its trip to Houston.

NATO, Mid and Far East crumbling

U.S. foreign policy...is the sky falling?

HENRY KISSINGER: TIME GROWS SHORT

Atlantic Alliance leaders may be at the point of asking the diplomatic equivalent of whether the sky is falling.

Soviet chiefs might feel justified basking in a glow of mutual congratulation.

Gloom in Washington

Even a casual rundown suggests that things are coming apart for American and North Atlantic Treaty Organization policy.

In Indochina it looks like the vast American investment of blood and wealth is headed toward the drain. In Europe, events in Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Cyprus and elsewhere are badly fraying NATO's hems. The Middle East remains resistant to Americans efforts for a new step toward stability.

GERALD FORD . . .
. . . policy turmoil

From a Washington standpoint, dismal would seem the approrpiate word for a procession of recent developments. The same developments seem to produce a tone of optmistic expectancy on the Communist side as the Soviet Union renews its pressure for a 35-nation summit extravaganza this summer.

—Vietnam. South Vietnam is being contracted and splintered. President Nguyen Van Thieu's loss of six provinces and the possiblity of more to come could mean the South soon will be cut in half and the regime ruling only enclaves around Saigon and Mekong Delta cities.

—Cambodia. South Vietnam's next-door neighbor is nearing the climax of a five-year struggle. A cave-in by Lon Nol's government under the pressure of the Communist-led Khmer Rouge would signal the final chapter, with probably stinging psychological impact in Saigon.

—NATO West. Portugal, NATO's western anchor, teeters at the edge of far-left military regime. It's not difficult to fathom why the Portuguese Communist party representative at the current Hungarian party congress got more applause than anyone except Soviet chief Leonid Brezhnev. Communists in Portugal are moving along textbook lines toward their goals.

—NATO East. Greece and Turkey, on NATO's eastern flank, remain hostile to one another and estranged from the Americans because of the Cyprus crisis which, in turn, is not noticeably susceptible to American diplomatic efforts. The alliance, as a consequence, has been weakened and may be further damaged. In Italy, the strong Communist party sounds increasingly confident of wedging into the government, a development that would make Italy, at best, a doubtful ally.

—The Middle East. Time grows short for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step process. Negotiations are due soon to shift to the Geneva conference anyway, and if this happens without a prior Israeli-Egyptian agreement on the second stage of military disengagement, chances are good for a long and dangerous deadlock in the unwieldy Geneva forum.

Rosy glow in Moscow

While the picture looks gloomy from the vantage point of Washington, the outlook must seem attractive to Moscow, whose words and attitudes now suggest a feeling that the Soviet iron is hot.

More than ever, the Soviet leaders now seem anxious for the current European Security Conference to wind up with a mammoth summit meeting on June 30. Whatever the Western view of the usefulness of such a meeting, the Russians obviously set great store by it, probably expecting it to have, for them, an advantageous psychological wallop.

The Russians expect the summit to ratify for good the boundaries that resulted from World War II, which would leave the Soviet Union unchallenged in Eastern Europe. Thereafter, Soviet policy would seek reduction and eventual withdrawal of American troops stationed in Europe, leaving Moscow with pliable European capitals to deal with.

TROOP 407 HONORS — Twenty-two members of Claremont Boy Scout Troop 407 were honored at a recent Court of Honor.

Awards were given to Roger Newman, Brian Parks, Steven Myers. Tenderfoot awards were presented to Mark Forseman, Charles Kurtz, Blaine Baker, and Matt Busch.

John Campbell, Terry Brier, Steve Ducey and Dale Brooks, were given their second-class awards, and Keith Miller and Ben Kyger were made first-class scouts.

Jim Cassidy and Pat Jack were honored as Star Scouts.

Merit badges were presented to Mark Forseman, Steve Brooks, Tim Faulkner, Pat Jack, David Myers, Kevin Hoffman, Pete Oliver, Keith Miller, Matt Busch, Ben Kyger, Doug Colenbrander, Dwayne Bake and Jim Cassidy.

ADULT SCHOOL CLASSES — Pomona Adult School is accepting registrations for five classes which will meet twice weekly starting in April.

The classes being offered are beginning and intermediate typing, PBX switchboard, woodshop and ornamental ironworking.

The Adult School office is in the Education Center at 800 S. Garey Ave. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

PACK 777 AWARDS — Cub Scout Pack 777 held its Blue and Gold dinner at St. Denis Catholic Church in Diamond Bar. Tim Cherry received his Bobcat badge and Martin Wehrli, Ed Robinson and Steve Horvath received their Bear badges and a Gold Arrow point.

Tom Hytopoulos, Steve Horvath, Robert Riley, Dennis Hansen and Brian Hertiage became Webios. Weblo awards were received by Tom Hytopoulos, David Amdahl, Mitchell Coe, Danny Worley and Mark Herdon. David Amdahl received his Arrow of Light and was welcomed into Boy Scouts.

A talent show followed the dinner and awards.

CHINO HIGH REUNION — Persons interested in helping form a committee for Chino High School's Class of 1970 five-year reunion are asked to call De Erreca at 628-3266 or Ken Hay, 629-1691 after 5 p.m.

The Progress-Bulletin earlier incorrectly reported Hay's phone number.

D.B. MAN TAPPED — Conrad T. Van Doran of Diamond Bar has been named to the Los Angeles County Vietnam Veterans Advisory Commission, Supervisor Peter Schabarum announced today.

Landscape bids open

Los Angeles County is looking for the best offers to landscape Valley Boulevard between Grand Avenue and the Pomona city limits.

Bids for the job will be opened by the Board of Supervisors April 1.

The job calls for the planting of 77 trees as well as the installation of a sprinkling system and a ground cover.

Money for the project will come from the county, the state, the federal government and the City of Walnut, according to Supervisor Peter Schabarum.

Azusa shop center rising

A $2 million shopping hub, the Azusa Glendora Center, is under construction at Barranca and Alosta avenues in Azusa.

It was designed by Burke Nicolais Archuleta, Los Angeles architects, and will consist of three main buildings with 34,000 square feet of floor space, and a market with 25,000 square feet.

The buildings occupy a six-acre site and will be connected by an arcade. Completion is scheduled for May.

Kindergarten signups set

Registration for kindergartners in the Claremont Unified School District will be held April 8, 9 and 10 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. at the school nearest the child's home.

Parents must have a birth certificate or other acceptable proof of the child's birth date, besides records of all previous immunizations.

Children are eligible to attend kindergarten during the coming school year if they were born on or before Dec. 2, 1970.

Named by Indians

The Mississippi River was named by the Indians, and literally meant "the Father of Waters."

POOL OWNERS:

A 40-week supply of liquid chlorine*

A 40-week supply of HTH*

Here's why you should be using hth now that liquid chlorine costs the same.

HTH is more convenient To chlorinate a stabilized 20,000 gallon pool for 40 weeks takes about 65 gallons of liquid chlorine. Or one 75 lb. drum of HTH.

HTH leaves you more fun time Liquid chlorine requires numerous trips to your pool supply dealer, lugging back empties, wasting time and travel costs. Buy one drum of HTH and spend your time swimming!

HTH is more trouble-free Liquid chlorine raises alkalinity rapidly. HTH has only a minor effect on pH.

SPECIAL TRADE-IN OFFER TO LIQUID BLEACH USERS Bring in a case of 4 empty liquid chlorine gallon containers. We'll give you a 5 lb. or 5½ lb package of HTH (granular or tablets) at no additional cost! We're that sure you'll be back for more. Offer expires April 15, 1975.

Cases down, major crime up in L.V.

The annual report of the La Verne Police Department shows a decrease in total crime reported, a reduction in the number of traffic accidents and an increase in the value of property recovered, but Chief Jack Baker is still not satisfied.

The report also shows a rise of 11½ per cent in major crimes over 1973, and Baker expects the trend to continue.

"We're no longer the small country town where people roll up the sidewalks in the evening,'' he explained. "We're growing. Our population has increased about 30 per cent in four years, and this brings us new problems."

He said it takes time for the new residents to mold into the rest of the community and while this is being accomplished there is much friction, resulting in an increase in aggravated assault.

Even after the new residents settle down, enforcement problems are likely to remain through new services the larger population demands.

"We now have places that are open all night, and many others that stay open very late, he explained. "This presents not only additional patrol problems but also opportunities for more nighttime crime."

Baker said La Verne may continue to maintain the friendly neighborhood community image for some time, but "you just can't hide the problems of growth."

He also pointed out that while the population has shown one of the largest growths in Los Angeles County, the police force has not kept up with the demand.

"We're eight men short right now," he said. "We are handling a population of 17,000 with the same force as we had in 1970, when the population was 12,500. Something has got to give."

Baker admitted that his concern was far from unique; major crimes—those which include murder, robbery, forcible rape, aggravated assault, theft over $50, burglary and grand theft auto—had gone up more than 50 per cent throughout the entire valley in the past two years, and 35 per cent in La Verne.

He said because of his manpower problem his department was able to solve only about 17 per cent of those cases.

He projected a much brighter picture in burglaries.

He said that because of an intensive public education program undertaken by Explorers attached to the Police Department, the value of stolen property dropped 21 per cent, even though the number of burglaries reported remained about the same.

Baker contends that the reduction in total crime as well as the drop in the theft of property is the result of a combination of better law enforcement and stronger community involvement in preventive measures.

He also gave credit to the two-year old juvenile diversion program of the department, through which police now work with minor offenders of junior high school age.

San Gabriel Italian group to get charter

Two national officers of UNICO National, a service organization of professional Americans of Italian descent, will assist in chartering the new San Gabriel Valley Chapter Saturday in Pasadena.

They are Paul Alongi, national executive secretary from Bloomfield, N.J., and Joseph C. Giannini, national director of expansion from Fairview, N.J.

Mayor Richard Montez of San Gabriel will extend greetings. Larry Collins, publisher of the Pasadena Star-News, will be guest.

Officers of the new chapter, will be Nedvento of San Gabriel will extend greetings. Larry Collins, publisher of the Pasadena Star-News, will be a guest.

Officers of the new chapter will be Ned Vento of San Gabriel, president; Salvatore Ioele of Alhambra, first vice president; Rudy Simone of San Gabriel, second vice president; Peter Aprato of Alhambra, third vice president; Nick Mastroni of Alhambra, secretary; Angelo Mosco of Arcadia, treasurer; Andrew Canzoneri and Nick Pontrelli of Alhambra, co-chaplains; and Lon Girdano of Temple City, sergeants at arms.

Reservations at $15 per person may be made by calling 213 285-2609 after 6 p.m. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7.

Freak accident fatal to 2 men

COALINGA (AP) — Two men trying to shake a rabbit from a 30-foot section of irrigation pipe were electrocuted when the pipe hit an overhead high tension cable near here, Fresno County sheriff's deputies said.

Officers said a third man was badly burned in the incident on the Burnett Ranch Tuesday.

Names of the victims were being withheld pending notification of relatives.

How 'bout this chorus line?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How do you get 30 name actors to play chorus boys in a television special?

"It was easy — all we had to do was ask," says Mitzi Gaynor, who displays the results on "Mitzi and a Hundred Guys," appearing on CBS next Monday.

Of course it helped that she made a donation to Hollywood's favorite charity, the Motion Picture and Television Fund, which administers the Country Home and Hospital in Woodland Hills.

But another factor was that her fellow performers like Mitzi.

Among the stellar chorus: Marty Allen, Steve Allen, Ed Asner, Milton Berle, Ken Berry, Bill Bixby, Ernest Borgnine, Tom Bosley, Mike Connors, Bob Crane, John Davidson, Vince Edwards, James Farentino, Andy Griffith, Monty Hall, Rock Hudson.

"Actually the show should be called 'Mitzi and 42 Guys,'" the star remarked, "because we also have the USC marching band of 80 pieces, 20 dancers and 10 musclemen, as well as my guests, Jack Albertson and Michael Landon."

The name turnout was the brainstorm of Mitzi's husband-producer, Jack Bean, and it required logistics rivaling those of a troop movement.

"There was no other way that we could get all of them together except on a Sunday," said Miss Gaynor. "We managed to shoot the whole thing between 10:30 and 4 in the afternoon.

"The whole show is music — no sketches. I think it's better that way.

JAMES P. SULLIVAN of Upland has joined the Kaiser Steel Corp. plant in Fontana as assistant superintendent for oxygen steel production.

Dental Society supporting solon's fluoridation bill

The Tri-County Dental Society board of directors has adopted a resolution supporting Sen. Anthony Beilenson's Bill 211 for statewide flouridation.

According to Dr. John Jacob of Riverside, society president, dentists in the society are urging the public to write state senators and assemblymen in support of the pending legislation.

In support of its stand, the Tri-County Dental Society refers to a statement by California State Health Director William Meyer on July 30, that "numerous studies over the past 30 years have shown that flouridated drinking water substantially benefits community dental health; and, to date, there has been no scientific documentation of any harmful effects from water flouridation."

Dr. Jacob said that both the American Dental Association and the California Dental Association support the use of flouridation water supplies as an effective means of reducing tooth decay without negative side effects.

Class for preschoolers due in L.V.

The La Verne Recreation Department will conduct a preschool class for children between 3 and 5 beginning March 31.

A three-day week class will be offered to children 4-5 every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The fee for the three-day a week class is $30 for 30 classes.

A two-day a week class will be offered to children 3-5 every Tuesday and Thursday and every Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The fee for the two-day a week class is $20 for 20 classes.

Registration is now being accepted at the Parks and Recreation Office, 2039 Third St., La Verne. All registration must be made, and fees paid, prior to the start of the class. For further information persons may call 593-4571.

Mt. SAC workers ask pay hikes of 12 per cent plus

More than 1,000 employes at Mt. San Antonio College want pay increases averaging about 12 per cent for the next school year to keep up with inflation.

In addition, the California School Employes Association, representing most of the nonteaching workers, is seeking salary adjustments quarterly rather than annually so that their pay could reflect immediate changes in the cost of living.

College board members took the request under advisement Thursday night.

James Simpson, vice president in charge of business services, estimated that requested raises would cost the college about $1½ million.

Employes requested a 6 per cent over-all boost in pay.

Then they asked that the balance of the 12 per cent be divided alike among all employes so that those earning less money would get a higher percentage.

Increases, by that formula, would range from 9½ per cent in the highest salary bracket to 15 per cent for those earning the least.

The group seemed to follow a formula devised by Eugene Curl, director of business services for the classified employes. Curl recommended to the board a 6 per cent increase across the board plus $50 a month in additional pay for everyone.

Teachers, who generally make more money than classified employes but work only a 10-month year, asked for the six per cent and $100 additional pay per month.

The faculty association is also asking for more money for summer school and evening school teachers. Right now both groups get $13 an hour.

Gerald Peter, chairman of the faculty's negotiating committee, believes the hourly pay should be tied to annual salaries or to years of experience.

The board is expected to study the request and come up with a counterproposal April 17.

In an unrelated matter, the board approved after a long discussion, an affirmative action program that would search out qualified members of minority groups including women for available jobs.

To accomplish this, the trustees approved the appointment of a coordinator who would run the propgram with the aid of an affirmative action committee.

Reformer who lost election in study group

MSAC board to consider addition of two trustees, representation on regional basis

The size of the Mt. San Antonio School board as well as the method by which it has been elected for the past three decades was in the balance today.

A study is under way to see whether the number of trustees should be increased from five to seven members.

The MSAC board gave unanimous approval Thursday night to a motion to form a committee to see if such a proposal is feasible. The committee is to report its findings to the board by June.

Not only is the committee to study whether such a change is practical; it is also to determine whether the trustees should be elected regionally, individually by the area each would represent.

The proposal was made by trustee Charles Hall as his last official action on the board. Hall is giving up his seat to Travis L. Manning who beat him at the polls March 4.

But board Chairman Richard Todd named Hall to the committee, "so that he could continue to serve the college, even though he was no longer on the board."

In accepting the appointment, Hall pointed out that the district covered an unusually large area, from Baldwin Park and Irwindale to Pomona, and contended that this made it difficult for five trustees to keep in close touch with the whole community.

He said there should not only be more trustees, but the trustees should be elected by the communities which they represent.

One of the tasks of the new committee — if it finds the proposal advantageous — is to help determine how to divide the district into seven regions.

Todd called for a committee of seven or eight persons representing the college, the students and the community. Then he immediately named Hall, and Max Bell, administrative assistant to Supt. Eldon E. Pearce, to serve on it.

Other members will be selected by Todd in the next few weeks.

If the committee presents a favorable recommendation to the board, the request will be turned over to the County Committee on School District Organization to proceed with an election.

College officials said the proposal, if approved by the board, probably would come before the voters at the next school board election, two years from now.

HOSPITAL VIGIL

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingrao stand beside their son, Jamie, 4, who was attacked by a dog while visiting his grandmother. The top part of one ear was chewed off but sewn back on. The boy was up for a short walk today. The parents are hopeful he will be released from the Chino General Hospital.

Dog that attacked child captured, in quarantine

A Chino boy attacked Wednesday by a dog while visiting his grandmother may not have to undergo the painful Pasteur anti-rabies treatment.

A German shepherd dog believed to have bitten the youngster was located less than two blocks from the incident and has been placed under quarantine.

Jamie Ingrao, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingrao of 4945 Francis St., was reported in good condition today at Chino General Hospital. He required more than 100 stitches to close the wounds left from the attack.

The dog chewed off half of one ear, left four long gashes on his scalp, bit out two teeth, and ripped open a chest muscle, said his parents.

Doctor spent about three hours suturing the wounds, they added. Jamie was under sedation Thursday but was reported up and walking today.

"He is still under medication but he did eat his breakfast and he is drinking more fluids," said the father. The parents are hopeful of taking him home today.

The mother Thursday identified a German Shephard owned by a resident on Orange Blossom Lane as being the dog that attacked her child.

The dog is under quarantine and must be kept chained for at least 10 days to determine if it has rabies.

Mrs. Ingrae had taken her two children, Jamie and an older brother, Jack, 6, to her mother's at 11587 Ramona Ave., where the attack took place.

They saw the dog when they got out of the car and the mother told the children not to pet it.

Mrs. Ingrao went into the house and the dog apparently followed the two boys into the back yard.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Ingaro said she heard her son crying. She looked out a kitchen window and saw the dog standing over Jamie with one paw on his chest.

When she ran out the door, the dog moved away a short distance and the mother grabbed the child and ran back into the house. Seeing the deep gashes on his scalp, she screamed for her neighbor.

Mrs. Ingrao said she threw a dormat at the dog who stood and bared his teeth. The mother opened the kitchen door again, screamed and ran to her neighbor.

She and Jamie were driven to the Chino hospital.

Jamie told his mother later that he had started to pet the dog as he was going to the house and that's when the dog jumped on him.

The other child ran to a pickup parked in the backyard when the dog attacked Jamie and he escaped injury.

Kindergarten law concerns school board

Ontario-Montclair school trustees have voiced concern over a new state law that has changed the age requirement for entering kindergarten.

Assembly Bill 3976, allows youngsters who have reached the age of 5 to be admitted to kindergarten any time during the school year.

According to a district spokesman, the decision still is left up to school administrators, but parents presumably could demand that a child be admitted.

Marge Gillespie, assistant superintendent for instruction, told the board Thursday the law will create problems.

Difficulty lies in promotions to first grade, she reported. If a child is admitted to kindergarten in February, the question is whether the school should promote him to first in the fall, after less than a year in kindergarten, or wait until the following February, Mrs. Gillespie said.

Another law mandates that children be promoted to first grade after one year in kindergarten.

In other action, the board amended an agreement with R. L. Kautz and Co. of Los Angeles, a consulting firm which is setting up a self-insurance plan for the district on workmen's compensation cases. They amended the agreement to run three years, instead of five.

McVittie gets leading role on legislature panel

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., has been appointed vice chairman of a new subcommittee formed to study fiscal impact legislation.

Its members will review current legislation which, in the aggregate, will have a fiscal impact of over $2 billion in the 1975-76 state budget.

"The subcommittee's work will be critical in the legislature's attempt to preclude a state tax increase this year," said McVittie.

The Upland legislator was to hold an open house today from 4 to 6 p.m. for his new district office at 1063 W. Sixth St., Ontario.

"We selected the site because of its close proximity to the people within San Bernardino County that I represent," he said.

McVittie said he will open a second office soon in the Pomona City Hall to serve Los Angeles County residents.

Thought she dislocated hip

Find woman unable to move 3 days

A 69-year-old woman injured in a fall lay helpless in the bedroom of her Carbon Canyon home for three days without food or water until neighbors notified the sheriff's officers Thursday.

Sheriff's Deputy Jerry Burns said a woman who lives nearby asked officers to investigate the welfare of Mrs. Anastasia Putta, 69, of 16720 Carbon Canyon Road near Chino.

According to the caller, Mrs. Putta had not been seen nor heard from for at least three days. She lives alone.

Burns said he arrived at the woman's home and knocked on her door. Burns said he talked to Mrs. Putta inside.

"I found out she was hurt and was unable to come to the front door to open it. I told her that I would have to get into the house some way since the door was locked. I finally asked her permission to break the front window to gain entrance," Burns said.

Burns said he found Mrs. Putta sitting on the floor of her bedroom with a blanket draped around her shoulders and a shawl around her head.

Burns asked where she had hurt herself, and learned the woman thought she had dislocated her hip. Burns said Mrs. Putta told him that she had fallen outside on Monday night and found she could not stand up. Mrs. Putta dragged herself back inside her home, managed to lock the door, and crawled into the bedroom.

Burns said that the woman found herself unable to get into bed or get to the telephone.

Burns said he noticed that Mrs. Putta could still move her legs and questioned her injury. An ambulance was called to the home.

Burns said she finally was transported to Chino General Hospital where doctors examined and found that the woman had suffered only arm bruises. Burns said that Mrs. Putta believed she had suffered a serious injury, and found herself unable to walk.

Doctors at the hospital said Mrs. Putta might have starved to death if someone had not come along to aid her. Mrs. Putta was to be transferred to San Bernardino County Hospital for further examination.

Y planning activities for young vacationers

An Easter Fun Club and a special learn-to-swim program will be held next week at the Pomona Valley YMCA.

The fun club will be held daily, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Activities will include swimming, gymnastics, games, singing and a trip to the Los Angeles Zoo. Cost for the week is $13.50 for YMCA members and $17.50 for nonmembers.

The swim campaign, for youngsters from 6 to 15, will be held Monday through Friday beginning at 9 a.m. Lessons will be offered every half-hour throughout the day.

A San Dimas man was burned over approximately 15 per cent of his body Thursday night while attempting to save furniture from his burning home at 612 Ramona Ave., firemen reported.

Forrest H. Gordon, 29, suffered second-and third-degree burns on his hands and face and first-and second-degree burns on his arms. He was reported in stable condition today at San Dimas Community Hospital.

Authorities said the fire began in a livingroom sofa as the result of a dropped cigarette. Gordon said he awoke and found the home filled with smoke. He was attempting to cary out a piece of furniture when he was burned.

Fashion show slated at Education Center

The Pomona United Neighbors will present a "Fashion Extravaganza" Saturday at the Pomona Education Center auditorium from 2 to 5 p.m.

Music will be provided by the New Creation. The Pomona United Neighbors' Dancers will also perform.

Tickets for the fashion affair are $1.25 for students and $2 for adults. Those wishing ticket information may call Sondra Brown, 593-6486 or Carol Page, 621-3690.

Cab owner's objections go unheeded

Chino to get public dial-a-ride system

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

Despite the continued objections of a cab company owner, the West Valley Transit Service Authority Thursday approved a four-month pilot operation with the county on a demand-response service in Chino.

The demand-response system is tentatively proposed to operate as a dial-a-ride, with residents calling for the mini-bus to pick them up at home and take them to certain fixed locations.

The WVTSA voted 4-2, with Mayor Paul Treadway of Ontario and Mayor Abner Haldeman of Upland voting no, to approve an agreement with Dave Systems for the design of a demand responsive transit plan, recommendations for the final implementation and expansion of the plan and evaluation.

The joint powers authority, representing the cities of Chino, Claremont, Montclair, Ontario and Upland, agreed to contract with San Bernardino County for operation of the experimental project.

Although the WVTSA said this action was not permanent, the decision caused a furor with Gene Stallians, owner of Paul's Yellow Cab Co.

Stallians argued that if the West End authority went with the county as operator it would be "wasteful, disruptive, counter-productive and introduce a competitive enterprise that could be destructive to the private sector."

Stallians contended that the cab company was the "logical purveyor" of the demand-responsive service.

The technical committee, comprised of city administrators of the West End cities and Claremont, unanimously recommended the agreement with Dave Systems and the county.

The San Bernardino Associated Governments' executive board has appropriated the $4,750 for the contract with Dave Systems. The WVTSA named Chino city Manager Bob Fast project control officer for the demand-responsive experiment.

Stallians claimed that he "only wished to be part of the solution, not a part of the problem." He argued that the private company could provide experienced personnel, a lower hourly cost, dispatchers from existing control centers, two-way radios and other necessary equipment and quick implementation.

"You are using public dollars to lower our rights and force us out of business," he charged. "We would seek regress in the courts . . . I point this out solely to alert you to the potential damages. I ask only for a harmonious, cooperative work relationship."

The Southern California Association of Governments and Senate Bill 325 for public transportation do not allow local governments to contract with privately owned businesses for transit service. The WVTSA is currently in the process of getting legislation introduced and adopted to modify this condition.

Stallians told WVTSA members he would use "whatever vehicle your authority decides is appropriate," including the Mercedes mini-bus now owned by the county.

Hal Bailin, an Upland councilman who also acts as Stallians' attorney, contended there would be no problem using money from Senate Bill 325. "It's a question of ownership," Bailin said.

"No matter where it is implemented, it puts the local cab company out of business."

Councilwoman Eileen Carter of Chino retorted "I do not think at any point we have attempted to eliminate private operators. This has been the point of the 325 amendment."

Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith pointed out that Stallians' previous argument for a private dial-a-ride service now operating in Claremont had been that the private company would not put public operators out of business.

"I want to remind you that I am now hearing arguments on the other side of the coin," Mrs. Smith said.

John Shone, the county representative on the WVTSA, explained that the Chino service would not be a pickup and delivery service. "It's a pickup and dropoff to certain fixed locations. We're not taking a resident to Aunt Jane's for tea," Shone said.

"This is not a taxi cab service. We will determine what we can do with one vehicle," Fast said. "We are not talking about a many to many situation, not even in the final implementation.

"The proposal for modifying the 325 bill, is to protect this board's neutrality on which way it will go. The intent is to keep that option open. The pilot program in Chino is just that — a pilot program. It has nothing to do with final implementation and who the operator will be."

Bailin charged that Fast's argument lacked credibility. "There seems to be no real reason for the county to operate the system excpet that it has put itself in the business." Bailin said.

Mrs. Carter asked Bailin at this point if he was speaking as an elected official whose city was involved with the WVTSA.

"I am speaking with a variety of mixed hats," he responded.

Shone reported that the county has the equipment, the central dispatch location and the manpower to begin the program whenver directed by WVTSA. With that, Mrs. Smith moved to accept the technical committee's recommendation to contract with Dave Systems and the county for the experimental project.

The service will be implemented in early April.

Education just for success urged

Educational theories are a dime a dozen, but occasionally one comes along that deserves better than the file-and-forget treatment.

The revolutionary program broached recently by one educator would more or less take reading, writing and 'rithmetic out of the elementary school and defer them until grade 6 or 7. The major purpose of the elementary years would be to provide the background necessary for success at the intermediate level, which in turn would prepare students for ultimate success in high school.

"It's better to arrive at the junior high level liking a subject such as science without knowing a terrible lot about it," says William D. Rohwer Jr. of the University of California, Berkeley.

As it is now, half or more of the students in school, irrespective of race, do not really receive an education, he says. The main mission of public education today, he charges, is selection — identifying persons who are and who are not talented — rather than educating all.

"Far from causing general alarm, individual inequalities in schooling are a source of security for our belief in the validity of the procedures of schooling," he says. "Thus the sad prospect is that unless we abandon our commitment to the use of the schools as a major device for separating the more from the less talented, failure will continue to be the fate of millions of children."

In Rohwer's school, the elementary curriculum would be designed to afford children repeated experiences of what work is like and what success in school work is like. Instruction would not be a mandatory, across-the-board requirement in the case of reading, arithmetic, language arts, social studies, science or any other subject, although it would be available according to the student's choice and readiness. It would be the task of the intermediate school, not the elementary school, to look after formal mandatory instruction in these skills and disciplines.

"All of the learning necessary for success in meeting high school demands can be accomplished in only two or three years — the junior high school years," says Rohwer. "Delaying the beginning of prescribed instruction until those years holds promise for many children of increasing the ultimate degree of academic success they can achieve."

Rohwer's idea may not have all the answers. But when we reflect on how many children begin school with great eagerness, only to be turned off — sometimes permanently — from learning, it has to be admitted that something is fundamentally wrong with the time-honored way of doing things.

Quake 'vaccination'

Scientists may someday "vaccinate" earthquake-prone areas against major shakeups.

"Instead of one very damaging earthquake, it should be possible to induce several minor earthquakes to defuse the fault and cause less damage," says Bezalel C. Haimson, professor of rock mechanics and mechanical engineering at the University of Wisconsin.

Already, researches with the U.S. Geological Survey have stopped minor tremors near a Rangely, Colo., oil field. Oil well operators had been producing up to 150 mini-earthquakes a month by injecting water into the ground to force up oil locked in the sandstone pores. When USGC scientists withdrew water and dropped the sandstone pore pressure, earthquake activity diminished to 10 quakes or less a month.

According to Haimson, the technique could be applied to future earthquake control. A fault could be locked at regular intervals by pumping fluid out of the rock, thus freezing slippage at these points.

Between the frozen points, fluid could be pumped into the rock, raising the pore pressure beyond the critical value. Minor earthquakes would result, releasing the energy stored in each frozen segment of the fault without catastrophic results.

Strange phenomenon

It's a strange phenomenon which sees so much all-seeing wisdom trickling down to the states from Washington and then the federal agencies themselves screaming when they are hoist on their own petard.

With the U.S. holding so much of the purse strings it's not surprising that the bureaucrats on the Potomac are able to tell the states where their roads and transit systems will be built, how their schools will be run, their communities masterplanned, their automobiles parked and on ad inifinitum. At the same time it's never been palatable that as far as Washington is concerned there are two sauces for goose and gander.

A case in point stems from a recent 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruling which held that federal installations must indeed abide by state environmental regulations, at least with respect to discharging waste into waterways. Inasmuch as most state standards across the country were set to meet federal requirements it seems almost unbelievable that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency which promulgates most of the rules should claim exemption of its brother federal agencies from the standards. Yet this is EPA's position.

The court ruling on cases brought by the states of California and Washington means that military bases and other federal installations in this state — several of which have been cited as major water polluters — and the Hanford nuclear facility on the Columbia River must clean up their discharges to the satisfaction of the states.

It's about time that the states come off even in a tilt with the federal government and we may even get cleaner water as the result.

"Get a shovel and fill in that depression!"

J. K. (DOC) PEIRSOL

Just in jest

When it comes to changing one's mind, the only thing that can give a woman competition is a government agency. — And don't jump to conclusions! At the moment I'm not pointing the finger of scorn at the current on again off again controversy over automobile exhaust emission corrective devices. There are even more interesting examples of government mind changing — and one of them is the Environmental Protection Agency.

Even though it once contended that the new British, French and Soviet supersonic jets would not only damage the ozone layer that protects life on earth from the sun's rays but also create dangerous noise pollution, those jets have now been given go-ahead landing privileges in the United States. — Which just goes to prove my original contention. A government agency can always assume a woman's prerogative and do a bit of realistic mind changing when damaged ozone and noise pollution get in the way of international trade and detente.

Baby is not a fetus; it's a human being

The press called it a fetus.

The defense lawyer called it a fetus.

The jury called it a baby.

And, after they did, they convicted Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin of Boston of manslaughter. He had delivered, by Cesarean section, a male child to a patient with whom he had agreed to perform a legal abortion. The jury ruled, after lengthy deliberation, that the baby was alive when it was removed from the mother.

The press had described it as "a fetus of 20-25 weeks." The jury was shown photos and described it as a 6-month-old baby.

The juror who held out longest against conviction said — after the verdict — that most of the jurors believed that the baby "was alive during the operation when it was taken out of the mother and that the doctor was negligent for not checking for a heartbeat. They thought his examination was too short."

Dr. Edelin was frustrated and angry at the outcome, not surprisingly. That he momentarily charged the jury with racial prejudice (he is black) can be attributed to the heat of the moment. There is no evidence to suggest that the jury based its decision on anything other than the charge put to them and the facts presented. In fact, most of them expressed personal sympathy toward the doctor.

One can give Dr. Edelin the benefit of the doubt and supposed that he harbored no malice toward the baby; he only performed his duty to abort the birth, both earnestly and professionally. He's now appealing the case and the final outcome cannot be predicted.

Meanwhile, it has given the right-to-life forces a great deal of encouragement. And, according to reports in the media, the verdict seems to have discouraged (at least temporarily) medical research into abortion and related life-control measures.

While we await the appeal and its decision, I have become increasingly concerned that there is a subtle, but nonetheless effective, move afoot to dehumanize babies unwanted by their mothers.

The latest chilling symptom: Dr. Edelin's lawyer says that he will argue in his appeal that a women's legal right to an abortion presumes that the aborted baby will be dead. If it isn't, as in the Edelin case, then it would have no right to live, under the law. What next? Euthanasia on a grand scale? Or, putting mentally retarded infants "to sleep?"

Before, during and after the Dr. Edelin case there has been —with increasing frequency — the use of the term "fetus" to describe a baby the mother wanted to abort. Fetuses, after all, aren't people, they're "things." If it's inconvenient to convert one into a "baby," then dispose of it.

Babies, on the other hand, are warm, lovable and cuddly. Altogether human. A fetus becomes a baby when it leaves the mother's womb alive.

Even if it doesn't, it certainly looks like a baby when it is 6 months old.

One is reminded of all the pejorative terms applied to various enemies to rob them of human qualities, in order to make belittling them, ostracizing them or killing them more easy: wops, frogs, spics, micks, polacks, gooks and slopes, to name a few. Add now the "fetus." No human qualities. A faintly repulsive sound to the word. Easily disposed of by serious-looking physicians and their patients.

What can be done to combat the growing tendency to dehumanize infants in the womb?

If you're pregnant and thinking of abortion, think of adoption instead. If you're not in that situation, write a letter to the editor every time he publishes a story describing a baby as a fetus.

It is time to say to all the world: we are not talking about a slug or a snail or a salamander. We are talking about a real, live baby whatever the shortness of its life. Write that letter. The squeaky wheel gets the grease.

Kissinger prepares for Mideast war

WASHINGTON — While Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is promoting peace in the Middle East, according to sources familiar with his grand design, he is also preparing for continued hostility.

At best, he believes he may be able to keep the Arabs and Israelis apart until the next round of negotiations. A final settlement, he knows, will have to come out of Geneva. He has given up trying to prevent a revival of the Geneva conference, where both the Soviet Union and the Palestine Liberation Organization will be represented.

Kissinger believes that the Soviets want to continue the tension in the Middle East, albeit without open warfare which could bring a dangerous confrontation with the United States. For tension keeps the Arabs dependent upon Soviet support.

If permanent peace should come to the Middle East, the Arabs would have less need of Soviet arms and could gradually loosen their ties with Moscow. Only Arab fear of Israel's military power, the Kremlin recognizes, permits the Soviets to keep their foothold in the Middle East.

Kissinger, therefore, expects the Soviets to obstruct any settlement that could bring lasting peace between the Arabs and Israelis. This is the reason he has tried to keep the negotiations away from Geneva, where the Soviets have a voice.

This is no longer possible, Kissinger realizes, so peace in the Middle East will remain tenuous. The astute secretary of state has been moving, meanwhile, to protect American interests in the area.

He has been guided more by geography than ideology. The United States, for example, has a big stake in the rich oil fields around the Persian Gulf. Consequently, he has sought to strengthen U.S. ties with the Persian Gulf states from Iran to Oman. He is trying to bolster the military power of Iran, in particular, as the protector of the Persian Gulf. But he is also doing all in his power to help all the Arab oil sheikhs to put down radical, Communist-inspired movements.

Pakistan is strategically located at the top of the Arabian Sea, commanding the approaches to the Persian Gulf. This is one reason, say our sources, for Kissinger's famous tilt toward Pakistan. He has quietly encouraged Iran and other oil potentates to provide Pakistan with over $1 billion in military aid. Now Kissinger has also lifted the U.S. embargo, which will permit the United States to ship arms directly to Pakistan.

Also crucial to U.S. interests in the Middle East, Kissinger contends, is Turkey which sits astride the Soviet passageway from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean Sea. This explains his careful but unsuccessful attempts to tilt toward Turkey. In the secretary's view, Turkey is an essential ally which Congress has alienated by cutting off military aide.

In private, Kissinger has complained that he is bound by geopolitics in choosing the allies that will be best for the United States. He has to give second place, he has said, to the degree of democracy in those countries and to their ethnic constituencies in the United States.

SECRET AGENT! CIA defector Phillip Agee has identified a former Paris associate, named Sal Ferrera, as a probable undercover CIA agent. We have now learned that the same Ferrera was once on the staff of Washington's underground newspaper, "Quicksilver Times."

It would have made a perfect cover for CIA work. For as an underground reporter, Ferrera had access to the radical leaders, ghetto militants, Latin American leftists and other revolutionaries who came to Washington.

Subsequently, Ferrera moved to Paris where he became associated with an attractive woman named Leslie Donegan. Agee charged that she loaned him a bugged typewriter. It contained a hidden electronic device, which made it possible for the CIA to locate his hideout in Paris. Agee says he is "almost" sure that Ferrera was also a CIA spy.

Ferrera denied to us that he has ever worked for the CIA. But his former associates in Washington's colorful underground press community believe that Agee's suspicions about Ferrera may be right.

They recall, for example, that he lived in a fashionable apartment and was always better fixed for cash than his comrades in the "Quicksilver Times" commune.

"He wasn't living out of a sleeping bag or an orange crate," said one former friend, Patti Heck. Another acquaintance, lawyer Douglas Smith, agreed: "Sal's lifestyle was inconsistent with his professed political views. He lived in a nice apartment, a new building where you had to be announced to get in."

Ferrera also had a fascination for electronic equipment and knew how to use it, they said. Ms. Heck told us she expected "sooner or later somebody was going to turn up" as an infiltrator, but she hates to think it was her friend Ferrera.

"When I saw the Agee book," she said sadly, "I cried. I didn't want to believe it. I really liked him."

RAY CROMLEY

Poe no match for KGB horror stories

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It is apparently an accepted rule of international diplomacy that one nation does not interfere in the internal affairs of another except by stealth, or, of course, when one nation defeats another in war. Then, as after World War II, major internal changes can be ordered by the victors. Sometimes, as in the case of Japan, these changes are lasting and beneficial.

We are in no position to dictate to the USSR on its treatment of Soviet citizens, as Sen. Henry M. Jackson, (D-Wash.) learned when the Soviet Union gave the back of its hand to a trade agreement which seemed to commit it to greater freedom in the emigration of Jews.

But we do, I think, have a moral obligation not to do anything in the name of detente which strengthens the Kremlin's hand in the abuse of its citizens, whatever their religious persuasion.

We have a duty, as a civilized people, to protest the actions of the Soviet Union in its continued use of psychiatric wards to imprison those whose only crime is that they speak out peacefully against repression.

When Alexander Solzhenitsyn lived in the Soviet Union and his book, "The Gulag Archipelago" had just been released, there was a period when the Western press was filled with stories about suppression. Today, the reports have largely disappeared.

Why this should be so is strange for new evidence about the actions of the Soviet secret police continue to seep out of that secretive land.

The latest information this reporter has come across is evidence presented by Dr. Norman B. Hirt, president-elect of the American Psychiatric Association, Western Canada division.

As is well known, protesters in the Soviet Union are frequently picked up and sent, without trial, to KGB psychiatric hospitals. A series of examples detailed by Dr. Hirt suggests that KGB psychiatrists administer drugs not permitted in civilian Soviet hospitals, drugs which create characteristics of one form of insanity or another. In some cases, these drugs leave the victim senile or vegetable-like. These dissenters are then released in this sad condition, some analysts reason to serve as a warning to other protesters.

Hirt says the KGB seems to use drugs which, when injected, produce extremely high fever, severe joint inflammation and, sometimes, brain damage. In older people they may cause a stroke, chronic arthritis, heart damage or symptoms of senility.

The KGB psychiatrists have also discovered, says Hirt, that huge doses of one drug result in a condition which looks pathologically like atrophy of the brain.

Dissidents in KGB psychiatric units are reportedly rolled tightly in wet canvass which is then allowed to dry out and contract, causing extreme pain and sometimes death.

Some of the KGB's drugs are said to cause the equivalent of epileptic seizures. At the Serbsky Institute, Hirt notes, there are wire cages about a yard long and a yard wide, and somewhat shorter than the height of a man. The dissident is put into a cage naked and given a drug which causes him to flail about uncontrollably until he falls exhausted.

I have no way of verifying these reports, which chill me to the bone. We must now do enough follow-through research to convince ourselves of their truth or falsity.

As one who believes firmly in seeking detente with the Soviet Union in the hope of preventing nuclear war, I am also convinced we must not allow that search to strengthen the Kremlin's hand in destroying the personal rights of its own people. Otherwise we all lose a little of our own freedom.

Social Security check finally comes--in big way

My father died six years ago at the age of 52.

He worked hard all his life and had managed to build up his Social Security benefits.

As his son I'm eligible for approximately $200 a month as long as I attend school full time.

I reside with my mother, who is living on the Social Security benefits she receives. I'm attending Mt. San Antonio College with more units than are required to be classified as full time.

In September 1974 I applied for the benefits I am eligible for.

The Social Security office in Pomona took the forms I had filled out and the verification slip from MSAC. I was told I should receive my first check in six to eight weeks.

In the next two months I heard nothing about my benefits. After a 45-minute wait a clerk informed me that the paper work had never been mailed. Supposedly verification of my enrollment at MSAC never was received.

I had the school re-verify my enrollment and again waited six to eight weeks.

On Dec. 13 I received a check for the sum of $281.40. No explanation concerning dates or amounts of benefits was enclosed.

The local office had no idea why I had received only part of my benefits and suggested I wait until Jan. 3 when the next month's check should arrive.

I still have received no check.

I am deeply involved with my education and thrilled with the knowledge and maturity it is giving me.

I don't think it is fair to my father, who worked hard all his life for his family, to allow Social Security to force me to quit school.—T. W., Pomona.

A trouble shooter at the Social Security Office said "critical case" procedure had been initiated for you once and, as a result of our inquiry, would be again.

You received a letter saying examination of your files revealed you were entitled to benefits not just since last September but for the past two years.

With the letter came a check for more than $3,300.

Shasta Beverages had a contest in your paper the latter part of last year.

Participants were to guess how many Shasta cans it would take to fill a Gremlin.

I entered the contest, not thinking I would win a Gremlin, but I did want to see how close I was to the amount.

I sent a self-addressed, stamped envelope twice to the company, asking for the name of the winners and how many cans it took to fill the Gremlin.

I received no answer. I think it was all a gimmick. — P.M., Montclair.

Your letter was dated Feb. 26. Ron LaRocca, promotion manager, sent you and us a copy of the contest rules providing that winners were to be announced Feb. 28.

LaRocca thought you probably had received a list of 350 winners of the various prizes but sent another just in case you hadn't. Unfortunately, you were not among them.

He said there were more than 222,000 entries.

For those whose pursuit of knowledge is unceasing, we report that it took 3,396 Shasta 12-ounce soft drink cans to fill the 1975 AMC Gremlin.

Veteran smoker gives advice to the teen-ager: quit now while you can

Dear Ann Landers: I read your response to the 14-year-old girl whose parents didn't want her to smoke so she did it behind their backs. She thought it would have been a lot smarter if her folks had given their permission rather than making a "sneak out of her."

I know a little about smoking because I started at 15 for the same reasons that most teen-agers start. They think it's cool. They like the feeling of freedom and independence it gives them. They feel grown up. Never mind the holes burned in their clothes, the bad breath, the $300 a year spent on the damned things. Their smoking friends won't say anything — except maybe, "Got a cigarette? I'm out" — but their nonsmoking friends view them as weak and hooked by a dirty habit.

If I sound like a square, let me tell you that I've tried such an assortment of illegal drugs it would make your head swim. I've had pot, LSD, uppers and downers, mescaline, cocaine and even heroin. But the only thing I CAN'T get off of is cigarettes.

So please, Ann, print this letter for your teen-age readers with this message fro me. QUIT NOW. You might not be able to later — and it's a lousy habit that can ruin your health. —Old Enough To Know Better

Dear Better: Thanks for your letter. And now a message from me to YOU. There is no such thing as CAN'T — only WON'T. Millions of nicotine addicts have kicked the habit and you can, too. Suffer a little now for the added benefits that will last you a lifetime.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are taking care of my sister's son who is 18 months old. She asked us if we'd keep him until we got tired of him.

He is such an adorable little guy I don't see how anyone could ever get tired of him. Our own little girl will be four years old next month.

My sister is 22. This is her second out-of-wedlock child. The first one died from neglect. She is the type who moves from guy to guy and won't listen to anyone.

My husband and I have always wanted two children, a boy and a girl. This little nephew is jut like a son. Is there any way we can adopt him legally? We love him very much — which is more than I can say for his mother. She rarely calls and hardly ever comes to see him. Can you help us? —Want Him Desperately

Dear Want Him: Your sister is the only person who can give you permission to adopt this child legally. I hope, with all my heart, that she will. Obviously he has a wonderful home with you and it would be an act of wisdom and generosity if she would sign the papers.

Show her this column if you think it will help. I'm keeping my fingers crossed.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a very fine man who has taken me out several times embarrassed me by asking a rather personal question. He wanted to know why I didn't "do something" about a hair-sprouting mole on my cheek. I told him I had seen a doctor and he said to leave it alone because it's deeply rooted and removal might be dangerous.

My friend said the doctor was full of baloney. What about this, Ann? —Surprised

Dear S.: If the mole is deeply rooted the removal might leave an indentation, but it would look better than a hair-sprouting mole. See another doctor. The only moles that might produce problems upon a removal attempt are those near the eyelids or the nose.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Lander's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Petting pets only makes them pests

One of the interesting facts about our current recession, according to people in charge of Interesting Facts About Our Current Recession, is that the ownership of pets is increasing. This is a common phenomenon of wars and depressions, according to sociologists. It's a mystery to me. I don't know why we have recessions. I don't even know why we have pets.

Time Magazine, which knows more than God, reports there are 100 million cats and dogs in America today. I believe it. Most of them gather under my bedroom window at 6 o'clock each morning to serenade me.

Pets, generally, have gotten out of hand in this country — as well as in my own house. Forty-two million American households have pets, including 350 million fish, 22 million birds and 8 million horses. The pets range from aardvark to zebra, and include such household names as budgeriagars, eelpout, gerbils, kinkajous, margays, opahs, peccaries, tejus, veeries, wallabies, wombats and xiphosurans. What was Noah thinking of?

Pets of famous people always make news. Dogs that belonged to Lionel Barrymore and Rudolph Valentino are buried in the Los Angeles Pet Cemetery. Pet astrologer Christopher Cerf cast the "caniscopes" for Dustin Hoffman's Subway and President Ford's Liberty. A dog named Checkers prolonged the political career of You-Know-Who. Efrem Zimbalist Jr.'s pet llama rides in a limousine. T. S. Eliot wrote poems to his cat. When Lyndon Johnson pulled up one of his beagles by the ears, he got more protest mail than was evoked by the Vietnam war.

When your children grow up and leave home — or leave home, whether they ever grow up or not — they always leave behind a pile of outworn clothes, a stack of Beatles records, a baseball glove and a pet. Thus I once found myself head game-keeper for a mini-menagerie consisting of a dog, four cats (one pregnant), a guinea pig, a parakeet, a desert tortoise, a large white rabbit and a bowl of goldfish. And I was under strict orders to "not get rid of" Ralph or Rucible or Cactus, because the quondam owner would return for him or send for her. I didn't hold my breath for the return postage.

The zoo-in-residence has now dwindled to three cats (all fixed) and a raffish brown and black creature purporting to be a dog. He is ill-mannered, disobedient and untrainable, with an enormous appetite for anything I am eating, plus between-meal snacks of library books and leather slippers. His thunderous bark rattles the windows when guests come for a visit, but during thunderstorms he can be found quivering under my bed (right beside me).

The cats go their disdainful way about the house, barely tolerating me, gorging themselves on expensive melts and liver scraps, and shedding hairs on all the chairs. When the light is right, they make an attractive trio — one white, one black, one auburn — but aside from the pictoral value, I have not discovered what use they are.

In hard times such as these, it is fairly breath-taking to learn that Americans spend $2.5 BILLION per year on pet food.

The country is going to the dogs (and aardvarks).

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

'Tummy' trouble may be the colon

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had some tests for nausea and the tests show I do not have enough acid in my system. The doctor seems to be at a loss to know how to treat my condition. He has tried several medicines but to no avail.

I have tried Metamucil which seems to give some relief. The X ray tests show only the diverticulosis.

I'm on a soft diet and a supplementary diet, but I'm losing weight. I have lost 20 pounds and only weigh 93 pounds now. I'm very miserable with this condition.

DEAR READER — It is fairly common for people to have decreased amounts of acid in the stomach after age 50. Often it is not associated with any symptoms at all. It can affect your ability to absorb vitamin B-12 and in that case pernicious anemia may develop, requiring B-12 shots. Taking the usual amount of B-12 by mouth will not solve the problem. I presume that you don't have anemia, but it can be associated with nausea.

Your problem may be from your colon, and the story of getting some relief from Metamucil is suggestive of this. The Metamucil provides bulk which you should be getting from a proper diet.

Diverticulosis, or pockets on the colon, usually mean the person has had long-standing problem with bowel function, whether or not they have recognized it. Spastic colon is a common accompaniment of diverticulosis.

Many people first learn they have diverticulosis from an X ray because the condition may cause no symptoms that have really bothered the patient. So it is a bit difficult to say this is your problem. Gall bladder disease and other conditions also cause nausea. A more detailed history of your symptoms would help.

Meanwhile I would question the use of a soft diet for anyone with uncomplicated diverticulosis or spastic colon. So often in our culture these conditions are the result of a diet devoid of bulk, particularly cereal fiber. It is a big change from the old management of diverticulosis, but in many cases it is the change that produces the results.

For more detailed information on diverticulosis, write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on diverticulosis. Be sure to enclose 50 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A large number of people have some excess gas when they start using a bulk diet with cereal. This will last about three weeks when the digestive system is adjusting to a more normal diet, instead of the refined flour, sugar and bulkless food so many people have become accustomed to eating. A good source of bulk is the whole cereal group made from wheat. The brans and shredded wheat are good examples. You might start your program with using real whole wheat bread and avoiding sugar and products made with white flour. I don't mean brown bread sometimes sold as whole wheat bread and simply colored, but the real thing made from 100 per cent whole wheat flour and not half whole wheat and half white flour.

Rituals put us to sleep quickly

What's your bedtime ritual, if any? Don't tell me, that's personal. But the query arises because a student of behavior says those who get to sleep quickest are those who every night do some one thing out of habit. Maybe a last cigarette while sitting on the edge of the bed. Or a trip around the house to douse the lights and lock the doors. Or a quick walk with the pup. Or a glass of milk, tea or whatever at the kitchen sink. Or a session with the TV news. When folk accustomed to any one of these or other rituals fail to go through them for some reason, they're likely to be unusually restless in bed, taking overlong to doze off.

CAVE ROOM

Q. "Settle a bet. Is there a cave room in the Carlsbad Caverns as big as the Houston Astrodome?

A. Bigger. Far bigger. One cave room in Carlsbad is the world's biggest. It's 4,000 feet long, 625 feet wide and up to 280 feet high. The Astrodome only goes 710 feet by 710 feet and 208 feet high at its highest point.

THE JEWELRY BOYS say about 97 out of every 100 weddings in this country now are double ring ceremonies.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL for a lightning bolt to deliver 25,000 times more current than was customarily shot through the electric chair for an execution.

ELDERLY

No Seasoned Citizen should forget: Immanuel Kant wrote his best philosophical works at age 74. Verdi turned out "Ave Maria" at age 85. Goethe finished "Faust" at age 80. Tennyson did "Crossing the Bar" at age 80. Michelangelo completed his geatest art work at age 87. Titian painted the "Battle of Lepanto" at age 98. And Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes set down some of his most brilliant opinions at age 90.

IT HAS FINALLY come to pass that mobile homes comprise more than half of the single family houses under construction hereabouts.

YOU KNOW that song entitled "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen." But do you know the whereabouts of Kathleen's home? No, not Ireland. The wife of composer Thomas Westendorf came from Germany. And that's where he promised in the aforementioned ditty to take her.

About this and that

Cattle brands in the Old West were a language all their own. When a mark was burned into a cow's hide, it told everyone—rustlers and others—who the cow's owner was. Brands were registered just as trademarks are today. By 1885, Colorado had 50,000 cattle brands on file.

Water District bus tour slated Tuesday

A Pomona Valley Municipal Water District bus tour Wednesday will feature visits to area water treatment and distribution facilities in the Walnut, Rowland, Covina and West Covina areas.

The site of a proposed $40,000,000 treatment, distribution and storage project in the southeastern and northeastern portions of the district will also be on the itinerary.

It is sponsored by the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, with organizing assistance from the League of Women Voters, and registered participants will gather at the Covina City Council Chambers, 125 E. College Ave., at 8:30 a.m. for a brief orientation program with Stan Kawa, manager of the PVMWD. The Water District will act as host to the group at a luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant before the group returns to the City Hall prior to 3 p.m.

To reserve a seat on the limited capacity bus interested persons should write, LWV, P. O. box 628, West Covina, 91790. Send name, address, telephone number and $1 registration. Make check payable to League of Women Voters, East San Gabriel Valley, or call 213-332-6124 or 213-331-6946.

The League of Women Voters has no position on the proposed construction project. However, since a district bond election may be held this year to seek financing, the League is concerned that the electorate be aware and informed.

The Pomona Valley Municipal Water Dstrict includes the incorporated cities of: Claremont, Glendora, La Verne, Pomona, Walnut and San Dimas and portions of City of Industry, Covina, West Covina and the unincorporated communities of Diamond Bar, Charter Oak and Rowland Heights.

Little League names officers for year

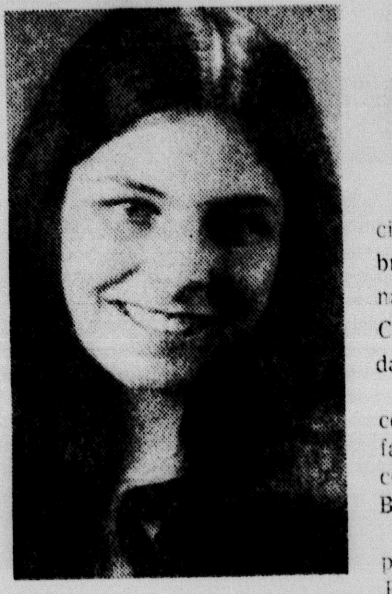
The group will meet at the parking lot of the Great Western Savings and Loan Building on the Pomona Mall at 8:30 a.m. for an all-day trip and visit to the museum in Malibu.

Following a luncehon which will be served in the cafeteria located at the site, a short business meeting is scheduled.



MICHELE MAGRI

Miss Magri will marry Pomonan

Miss Michelle Ann Magri and Robert G. Thunell are planning a wedding next spring.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Magri of Pomona, the bride-elect graduated from Pomona High School. She is majoring in nursery school education at Mt. San Antonio College.

Miss Magri is an adviser to Backpacking Explorer Post 107 and is employed at Carl's Jr., Pomona.

Mr. Thunell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Thunell of Pomona. He graduated from Pomona High School and is a junior at Cal Poly Pomona majoring in electrical engineering. He is employed at In-n-Out Burger.

We T.I.P. chosen by State DAR

Support of the We T.I.P. program (We Turn In Pushers) was voted unanimously at the recent state conference, California State Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, held in San Francisco.

Repeal of the 25th amendment, opposition to tax funds for the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency, limitations on longevity of national emergencies, and rigid inspection of imported food and dairy products were among other resolutions adopted as presented by the state chairman, Mrs. Arthur D. Jaynes of Claremont Chapter.

Also attending as delegates from the chapter were Mrs. Francis A. McKee, state vice chairman of Americanism, and Mrs. Fred W. Juergens, regent and third year member of the resolutions committee.

Camp Fire Girls to mark birthday

The Mt. San Antonio Council Camp Fire Girls will celebrate the 65th birthday of the national organization at a Creative Arts Fair on Saturday.

Twenty groups from the council will participate in the fair at Indian Hill Village, corner of Holt and Indian Hill Boulevards, Pomona.

The local council, comprised of the communities of Pomona, Claremont, San Dimas, La Verne, Walnut and Diamond Bar, is now the 14th largest council in the national organization which was founded by Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick in 1910.

The symbol of the organization remains the crossed logs and flame, representing the warmth, adventure and excitement associated with the basic philosophy of the organization.

Nationally, there are now 600,000 registered members of Camp Fire Girls.

The first Camp Fire Girls group in the Pomona area was organized at Pomona College in 1914 by Louise Gulick. By 1924, the local council included 11 groups and became an agency of the first Pomona Community Chest.

The council's first office was provided by Pomona Ebell in its clubhouse.

TODAY'S Women

Thomas and Lewis vows are repeated

In a double-ring ceremony at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Pomona, Miss Jane K. Lewis became the bride of Val Thomas.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis of Upland was given in marriage by her parents when she recited vows with the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Tatman of Chino.

She carried a bouquet of roses and carnations.

Miss Linda Tomblato was maid of honor and Mrs. Trudy Whitbeck was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ellen Whitford and Miss Diane Crisp.

Tracy Whitbeck was flower girl and David Whitbeck was ring bearer.

Serving as best man was Jim Eliason. Ushers were Pete Newton, Jerry Emcheck and Dick Whitbeck.

A reception at the Ontario American Legion Hall honored the couple.

After a honeymoon at Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are residing in Pomona.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Won't play father

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband refuses to be a father in the sense that he won't ever discipline the children, he won't accept any authority and most of the time, as far as I'm concerned, he's like another child in the family. He became very angry not long ago when I told him that if I'd wanted another son, I'd have had one and that I wanted him to be a husband, not a son. Naturally, I didn't say this in front of my children because I'm trying to teach them to respect their father. It's as if he just refuses to grow up and accept any responsibility other than providing an income. I feel this just isn't enough and I think the children are suffering. At times, it seems to me as if I'm the only parent. He says I'm old-fashioned and the trend is away from set sex roles. —C.A.

Dear C.A.: Sex roles don't have to be rigidly defined in the sense that a man must fulfill certain functions within the family and a woman must fulfill others. Sexual identity is beginning to mean establishing a sense of self that allows each individual to develop his potential and to express whatever human qualities he may feel without being labeled either manly or effeminate.

From what you write, your husband does not seem to be living up to his responsibilities as an adult and as a parent, regardless of his particular sex role. Putting it simply, he is refusing to pull his share of the load as a parent. Instead he seems to want to be, as you have observed, another child in your family. This leaves you with the task of being the lone parent, which is neither fair to you, nor healthy for your children.

Although it's quite possible for a single parent to raise a family, it becomes much more complicated when there are, in reality, two parents and one simply refuses to function. What happens is that the children see they have a father but they see him as weak, immature and impotent as a parent. The male children identify with him and see themselves in this same role.

Discipline should be a joint responsibility and should never be left solely to either parent. Both should agree on how their children's good behavior is to be rewarded and what, if anything, is to be deprived or withheld when a child misbehaves or disobeys. Controls, protection and authority are very much related. This is the way a child builds what has been called "controls from within." This is how the child grows up and it is vital that there be discipline so he may develop into a healthy, adjusted adult.

Children learn about adult behavior from watching the adults in their home. Through observation, they learn how men relate to women and how women relate to men. If they witness a man behaving like a child with a woman, they will assume that this is the way of the world, and their own lives will be molded by this experience.

Most children have lots of friends their own age so they do not need their parents as friends or a duplication of what they experience with their peers. They need guidance and they need to feel that someone is in charge and is going to be responsible to them in time of need. This kind of authority gives the child a sense of security and well-being. Ideally, in a two-parent household, this should come from both parents.

Your husband's problem is primarily one of failure to accept maturity rather than a problem caused by a particular sex role rigidly forced upon him. Your husband, your family and your marriage might benefit from some professional counseling on this matter.

Navy singers at Busch Gardens

The U.S. Naval Academy Glee Club will make a special Easter Sunday concert appearance at Busch Gardens in Los Angeles from 1 to 2 p.m.

Their performance will be followed by the finals of the "Great Ted Mack Talent Search" featuring a talent show with emcee Ted Mack.

The glee club, under the direction of John B. Talley, has performed at the White House and on national television. The group's concerts feature sea chanteys, classics, folk tunes and modern hits.

'Six RMS RIV VU'

Gallery Theater rehearsing show

The comedy "Six RMS RIV VU," by Bob Randall, has been cast and is now in rhearsals at the Gallery Theater in Ontario.

"Six RMS RIV VU" takes place in a vacant apartment with a river view, open for inspection by prospective tenants. Among them are a man and woman who have never met before. They are the last to leave and, when they get ready to depart, they find the door is locked and they are shut in.

Included in the cast are Donna Sweeney, Shawn Fesler, Colleen Riggs, George Trittipo, Lavinia Smith, George Lightner, Lynda James and Donald Bazzell.

The show is scheduled to open April 25. Club bookings are now being taken.

Rare Earth to give S. Bernradino concert

Rare Earth, Motown recording artists, will appear in concert tonight at 8 at the Swing Auditorium of San Bernardino.

The rock group will be featured artists as the 60th National Orange Show moves into its final weekend.

Backup groups on the rock concert are Blue Oyster Cult and R.E.O Speedwagon. Tickets will admit the bearer to the Orange Show grounds also.

Rare Earth is comprised of Pete Hoorelbeke, drummer and lead vocalist; Ray Monette, guitarist; Ed Guzman, congas; Mark Olson, pianist; Gil Bridges, flute and saxophone; and Mike Urson, electric bass.

Donald Roeser, Buck Dharma, guitars; Eric Bloom, vocalist; Allan Lanier, piano; and Albert and Joe Bouchard on drums and bass make up the Blue Oyster Cult.

R.E.O. Speedwagon members are Neal Doughty and Alan Grantzer, founders; Greg Philbin, bass; Gary Richrath, guitar; and Kevin Cronin, lead singer.

Chamber group due in Claremont

Barry Tuckwell, French horn virtuoso, will be featured soloist with the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra during its appearance in Bridges Auditorium in Claremont April 5 at 8:15 p.m.

The concert will be the second event in the Artist Course Series B for this season. Tickets are available at the box office in Claremont and all Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

Alberti named show conductor

Bob Alberti, musical director for NBC-TV's "Name That Tune," will be the conductor for the American Academy of Dramatic Arts' benefit show slated for Sunday at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, starring Sammy Davis Jr.

12th Streeters will perform

The Kansas City Twelfth Streeters will be the featured band at the regular monthly meeting April 6 of the New Orleans Jazz Club of Southern California.

The meeting will be held at the Elks Lodge in Fullerton.

The Kansas City Twelfth Streeters include Ralph Harden, trumpet; Clyde Hunter, trombone; Cliff Beard, piano; John Rogers, bass; Tom Raftican, drums; Fred Baumberger, banjo, guitar, electric bass; and Bill Balendonch, clarinet.

Will go on tour

David Dill, Pomona freshman trombonist, a member of the California Lutheran College Orchestra, will tour Northern California with the orchestra April 4-13.

OFFER EXPIRES MARCH 31, 1975

'Ring Round Moon' previews booked

Five low-priced previews for Jean Anouilh's romantic farce, "Ring Round the Moon," starring Michael York and Glynis Johns, have been scheduled at the Los Angeles Ahmanson Theater.

Preview performances are set for March 27, 28, 29 and 31 at 8:30 p.m. with a preview matinee on March 29 at 2:30 p.m. The comedy, which is adapted by Christopher Fry and directed by Joseph Hardy, opens on April 1 for a six-week engagement through May 10.

The play, with Michael York starring as identical twins and Glynis Johns portraying his aristocratic aunt, is frequently described as a romantic and colorful charade. The setting is the 15th century chateau of Madame Desmortes (Miss Johns), the time those days before World War I when fabulous balls were common.

A host of eccentric guests have gathered at the chateau for such a gala occasion. They include ballerina-for-hire, a millionaire industrialist of obscure origins, a petulant adventuress, and various mistresses. Even before the ball starts, matters begin to go awry. Mistaken identities, affections abruptly transferred, misunderstandings between lovers, and confusion of the identical twins (York) lead to series of mismatchings and re-matchings.

The cast includes Kitty Winn, Joan van Ark, Keene Curtis, Rosemary Murphy, Kurt Kasznar, Penny Fuller, Anne Seymour, Paul Shenar, and William Schallert.

Preview and regular performance tickets can be purchased at the theater box office and most ticket agencies. Performances are nightly (except Sundays) at 8:30 p.m. with matinees on Thursday and Saturdays at 2:30 p.m. Students discount tickets ($2.50) are available one-half hour before curtain with valid I.D. card.

"Ring Round the Moon" is the fourth and final attraction in Managing Director Robert Fryer's 1974-75 subscription season for Center Theater Group at the Ahmanson.

ROSEMARY MURPHY makes her Los Angeles Music Center debut in a co-starring role in the Center Theater Group's production of "Ring Round the Moon," playing April 1 to May 10 at the Ahmanson Theater. The play stars Michael York and Glynis Johns.

Shakespeare co. to stage 'Hedda Gabler'

Tickets in all price categories are now on sale for the Royal Shakespeare Company production of "Hedda Gabler" which opens a limited 10-day engagement at the Huntington Hartford Theater April 9.

Academy Award winner Glenda Jackson will star in the title role.

Performances the first week will be Wednesday through Saturday evenings at 8:30 and Thursday and Saturday matinees at 2:30 p.m. A special evening performance is scheduled for April 13 at 7:30.

During the second week, performances will be April 14-19 at 8:30 p.m. with matinees April 16 and 19 at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at the Hartford box office and all Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies and Wallich's Music City stores. For additional information, interested persons may call (213) 462-6666.

U.S. inks new wheat deal with Jordanians

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The United States signed an agreement Thursday to supply Jordan with 20,000 tons of wheat in addition to a similar amount delivered last month, King Hussein's government announced.

Under the new agreement, Jordan is to pay $6.8 million for the 40,000 tons. Payment will be over 20 years at 2 per cent interest for the first two years and 3 per cent for the rest, a government spokesman said.

CONCERT ARTIST—Gilbert Reese, internationally acclaimed cellist, will be solo artist for the Sunday afternoon concert of the Claremont Symphony Orchestra in Bridges Hall of Music.

Claremont Symphony

Cellist Gilbert Reese to be guest soloist

Gilbert Reese, internationally acclaimed cellist, will be solo artist for the 22nd anniversary spring concert of the Claremont Symphony Orchestra Sunday.

The concert will be held at 4 p.m. in Pomona College's Bridges Hall of Music.

Reese will perform the Cello Concerto by Antonin Dvorak. The program will also include Symphony 88 in G-Major by Joseph Haydn and the Roman Carnival Overture by Hector Berlioz.

Reese made his debut at the age of 21 with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under the direction of Bruno Walter. Following studies in New York with Diran Alexanian, he went to Paris, France to continue his musical education at the Ecole Normale de Musique and his cellistic studies with the famous Pablo Casals.

Upon receiving his diploma in composition with Arthur Honegger and his licence in cello, he made his first European recital tour before returning to America for his Town Hall debut in New York.

Reese was chosen as principal cellist of the Indianpolis Symphony, the youngest musician of the 1952-53 season to hold this position with a major symphony orchestra. Following 12 years with the symphony and as a music professor at Butler University, he became a solo artists.

He has appeared in recital and as soloist with orchestras in most of the major musical centers of western Europe and America. During the 1974-75 concert season, he returns to Europe for recitals in Zurich, Berlin, Brussels and Oslo.

Stanley Cup

The Stanley Cup for hockey is the oldest trophy competed for by professional athletes in North America. It was donated by Frederick Arthur, Lord Stanley of Preston, who purchased the trophy for 10 guineas ($50 at that time) to be presented to the amateur champs of Canada. Since 1910, when the National Hockey Association took possession of ther cup, it is symbolic of professional ice hockey supremacy.

London trip offered by theater unit

The Citrus College Summer Theater Workshop is offering a two-week theater and history trip to London June 23 to July 7.

Jacqueline O'Rourke, drama instructor, will conduct the trip.

Tour participants will register for one to four units of college credit. Juniors and seniors in high school may register at the college and participate in the tour, and an independent study program is also being offered for veterans who are full-time students, studying under the G.I. Bill.

Persons planning to register should be interested in theater or history. Some eight London productions will be viewed by the group, and a day at Stratford-on-Avon, birthdplace of Shakespeare, is scheduled.

Students will visit Stonehenge, Bath, Canterbury, Cambridge University and Windsor Castle and participate in guided tours in London. Optional activities and tours will also be offered.

The fee of $898 covers round-trip transportation on TWA, 13 nights in London and some meals.

Deadline for registration and payment of deposit is April 1. Those wishing additional information should call (213) 335-0521.

'West Side Story' dates are changed

Dates for presentation of "West Side Story" by the Citrus College musical-comedy workshop have been changed to May 2, 3 and 4. It formerly was scheduled for April.

The cast includes Jon Osbrink as Tony, Marian Bodnar as Maria, Chris Holder as Riff, Eric Thoreson as Bernardo and Diane Hill as Anita.

Fred Vaugeois directs the product with choregography by Harriet Davidson Vaugeois. Ben Bollinger is music director and the performances will be conducted by Dave Osborne.

Persons wishing ticket information should call the Citrus College auditorium box office, (213) 335-6116.

China's Performing Arts Troupe premieres April 3

The Performing Arts Troupe of China, consisting of more than 60 singers, dancers and musicians, will give its United States premiere performances at Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium on April 3, 4 and 5.

The troupe, the first from the People's Republic of China to be seen in Los Angeles since cultural exchange with China began, will offer a program of songs, dances, instrumental selections and excerpts from revolutionary ballets and Peking operas.

The muscial program will range from 300 A.D. to the present and will feature both Chinese classical music and folk songs of many provinces and national minorities. Selections will be heard from the ballet "The Red Detachment of Women," and from the modern revolutionary Peking operas, "The Red Lantern" and "Taking Tiger Mountain by Stratagem."

The pipa, suona, transverse flute and other traditional Chinese instruments—as well as the concert grand piano—will be played.

The first U.S. tour of the Performing Arts Troupe will be presented by Brannigan-Eisler Performing Arts International, Inc., and will be sponsored by the National Committee on United States-China Relations. Previous attractions brought to the United States under the cultural exchange program with the People's Republic were the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe and the Wushu Traditional Chinese Sports Troupe, both of which played to capacity audiences.

'Me and Bessie' returns to Forum

Gerri Dean and Lester Wilson who previously appeared nn the New Theater for Now production of "Me and Bessie" rejoin Linda Hopkins for the return engagement of the musical re-creation of the Life and music of Bessie Smith, opening April 4 at the Los Angeles Music Center Forum.

The staging is by Robert Greenwald, with book by Will Holt and concept by Miss Hopkins who appears as Bessie Smith. Sets and lighting are designed by Donald Harris with costumes designed by Pete Menefee.

Miss Dean first appeared on stage in "Sambo" at the Public Theater in New York. The winner of the Variety critics poll for 'Most Promising Actress' for her performance in the original cast of "The Me Nobody Knows." She has since directed and choreographed several companies of that show.

She has choreographed for "The Electric Company" and has appeared on numerous television shows. She appeared in the subsequent Ford's Theater staging of "Me and Bessie" in Washington, D.C.

Wilson graduated from the Juilliard School of Music, where he was a featured dancer and choreographer. He appeared with Sammy Davis Jr. in "Golden Boy" on Broadway, choreographed the London production of the play as well as a production of "Jesus Christ Superstar" in Germany.

Wilson wrote and played a major role in the Huntington Hartford's staging of "600 Dollars and a Mule" and was an associate choreographer for the movie "Funny Lady" with Barbra Streisand. He is the winner of a 1974 Los Angeles Black Artist Award. "Me and Bessie" will play through May 3. One special preview. performance will be held on April 3.

Jazz at Mark Taper

Marian McPartland, jazz pianists headlines the fourth and final week in Tom Hatten's Intimate Jazz at the Mark Taper Forum series Monday at 9 p.m.

Miss McPartland has been the recent recipient of national publicity because of her work with school children. Distressed at the lack of current teaching of jazz forms in schools, the British-born pianist, applied for and received a government grant to visit elementary schools throughout America and give practical, personal demonstrations on jazz as part of the school curriculum.

She is married to jazz cornetist Jimmy McPartland. Her latest release is "Marian McPartland plays the Music of Alec Wilder."

All tickets are $7.50 and seats are reserved.

$8 million study

Serious energy policy errors?

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The federal government's $8 million Project Independence report contains serious errors and oversimplifications, according to a study at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Four MIT professors who helped analyze the report for the National Science Foundation outlined their findings at a hearing in Washington this week of Congress' Joint Economic Committee.

The report was developed by the Federal Energy Administration as the basis for a national energy policy.

Among the report's mistakes are an underestimation of the future demand for and supply of natural gas and oversimplification of fluctuations of foreign oil prices, two of the professors said in interviews.

"The errors are in the analysis," said Henry D. Jacoby, a professor of management. "The way they have done the modelling has led to some biases."

Among the biggest problems is the way the report forecasts the nation's production and use of natural gas.

"In terms of supply, it assumes that no matter how high prices go, supply will not increase," said Prof. Jerry A. Hausman.

"In recent years, there have been no new supplies of gas, even though prices have gone up somewhat. So they have projected this into the future to say that there will be no change in supply no matter how high the price goes.

Most economists believe that higher prices would spur considerable exploration for new gas supplies, he said.

On the demand side, Jacoby said the study assumes that use of natural gas will not increase even if the price of oil goes up — "This is like saying that people won't switch to chicken if the price of hamburger goes up."

The report also assumes that world oil prices will level off and remain stable.

"We believe that's a pretty serious oversimplification," Jacoby said. "We believe forces at work would cause prices to fluctuate."

Some of the problems with the report stem from the assumptions it makes, involving changes in government energy policy that cannot be guaranteed, Hausman said.

He said that in making its predictions the government computer model assumes that prices of domestic oil will be deregulated, most controls will be taken off natural gas prices, environmental standards will be eased and electric power rates will rise so that private utilities can expand.

"Each of these things, to occur, would be a major policy change," Hausman said.

He and Jacoby said government economists realized some of the shortcomings of Project Independence but did not have time to correct them because they had a deadline to meet in preparing the report.

"Now people are using this document without realizing these errors are present," Hausman said.

Federal fraud trial

Birth control expert is guilty

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dr. Joseph Beasley once said he dreamed of establishing an international birth control empire to break the poverty-reproduction cycle in developing nations.

This week, a federal jury found Beasley guilty of three counts of conspiracy to defraud the government by padding the costs of mobile birth control clinics.

He faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison and $10,000 in fines on each count.

Beasley's Family Health Foundation program, set up 10 years ago with grants from the Ford and Rockefeller foundations, has been praised as visionary and repudiated as fraud.

Over the years, it received some $62.5 million in federal, state and private money. Some of it came from the Agency for International Development, which admired Beasley's work in Louisiana and paid him to set up model programs in Brazil, Colombia and Mexico.

The government claimed Beasley's foundation got nearly $800,000 for mobile clinics that were never built and for padded costs to some that were. It said the money was used to bail out deficit accounts and to support Beasley's "lavish lifestyle."

As Beasley's clinics spread across the state, so did opposition to his program. Beasley claimed that state and federal investigations of his program grew from political pressure by the Louisiana medical profession.

The investigations climaxed in indictments against Beasley and three other officials of his foundation.

The prosecution said Beasley entertained potential contributors at a famous New Orleans restaurant and used a luxury jet leased by the foundation to visit his Latin American projects.

Last year, a federal judge ordered the foundation into bankruptcy. Some of its clinics were taken over by the state, which had paid the Beasley group to handle birth control services for welfare recipients.

Beasley's lawyer, former New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, said he would appeal the conviction. Garrison had brought the trial to an abrupt finish Monday by resting his case without calling any witnesses.

The jury deliberated about three hours before pronouncing Beasley guilty. It was his second trial; the first had ended in a hung jury.

U.S. District Court Judge Alvin Rubin delayed sentencing pending results of an investigation.

Western is America's #1 on-time airline for the third consecutive year.

It has never been done before. Until now.

And, frankly, we worked darn hard to do it.

Because we at Western feel that a timetable is really a list of promises. When we promise to take off. And when we promise to arrive.

Keeping those promises has made us #1 of all major U.S. airlines in on-time performance.

Not only last year. But the year before. And the year before that.

And isn't that what flying's all about? Getting you where you're going fast. And on time.

When you fly Western, we know you'll enjoy our famous First Class Legspace that every passenger gets. And complimentary Champagne for every adult.

But we also thought you'd enjoy knowing you're flying the #1 on-time airline.

Kentucky gets rematch with Indiana

Syracuse upsets N. Carolina

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Fifth-ranked Kentucky has been pointing for a rematch against unbeaten No. 1 Indiana ever since the Hoosiers gunned down the Wildcats 98-74 earlier this season.

The time for the shootout virtually is at hand.

To be exact, it will be Saturday at Dayton, Ohio.

Both teams reached the final of the NCAA Mideast Regional basketball tournament with victories at Dayton Thursday night, Kentucky trouncing unranked Central Michigan 90-73 and Indiana beating 13th-ranked Oregon State 81-71.

"We're as good as they are," boasted Kentucky's Kevin Grevey in a challenge to Indiana.

"We are glad to get a chance to play them again this season," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "When you have a situation like this, the kids are charged up."

"It should be quite a battle," observed Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller.

Meanwhile, in the East Regional at Providence, R.I., No. 20 Syracuse upset sixth-rated North Carolina 78-76, and 17th-ranked Kansas State downed unranked Boston College 74-65.

At Las Cruces, N.M., in the Midwest Regional, No. 3 Louisville stopped 12th-ranked Cincinnati 78-63 and fourth-rated Maryland trimmed No. 9 Notre Dame 83-71.

And in the West Regional at Portland, Ore., second-ranked UCLA squeaked past unheralded Montana 67-64 and No. 7 Arizona State topped 16th-rated Nevada-Las Vegas 87-84.

All the winners will meet Saturday for the regional titles, then the winners will advance to the national semifinals at San Diego March 29. The championship will be at San Diego March 31.

Indiana's victory over Oregon State was its 34th in a row over two years and 31st this season. The Big Ten Conference champions got 34 points from Steve Green, who connected on 14 of 19 field goal attempts, and 23 points from Kent Benson.

The Hoosiers opened an early 10-point advantage, saw it dwindle to two, then took command by holding Oregon State scoreless for more than five minutes.

"I thought we went from patience to impatience to patience in the first half," said Knight. "We were going too quickly on offense, but then our patience took over again."

Kentucky, 24-4, led upstart Central Michigan by only two points with eight minutes left, before pulling away with three straight baskets.

"We weren't alert and we weren't aggressive," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "The reasons for our play were obvious. Without criticizing our team, we have a lot saved for Saturday. Still, I was pleased. I would have been pleased with a one-point victory."

Kevin Grevey paced Kentucky with 17 points.

Syracuse's victory over North Carolina was the biggest upset so far in the far-ranging NCAA tourney. The Orangemen, 22-7, won it on Jim Lee's field goal with three seconds remaining. Lee finished with 24 points.

Syracuse Coach Roy Danforth praised his team for not losing its poise despite trailing most of the way against the powerful Atlantic Coach Conference team.

"Everybody thinks ACC teams are so strong and that teams in the Northeast can't play basketball," said Danforth. "We had three or four team meetings this week to talk about that,

Chuck Williams' 32 points, 24 in the second half, led Kansas State, 20-8, past Boston College. Williams connected for 16 points in the first 10 minutes of the second half when the Wildcats went on a 24-12 spurt for a 63-48 lead. The Eagles rallied to within 65-63, but couldn't overcome the Wildcats, who shot a sparkling 63 per cent from the field, hitting 34 of 54 attempts.

Louisville, 26-2, used first-half streaks of 15-0 and 10-0 in building a 45-25 lead and beating Cincinnati, ending the Bearcats' 16-game winning streak. The Cardinals' Junior Bridgeman scored 20 points, 14 in the decisive opening half.

Cincinnati Coach Gale Catlett blamed himself for the setback because he kept his team in a zone defense throughout. "I can take credit for the loss," he said. "We shouldn't have been in a zone. It might have been a different game if we had gone man-to-man."

Maryland, 24-4, rallied from a 15-5 deficit against Notre Dame and finally forged ahead to stay 50-48 early in the second half on a field goal by John Lucas, its high scorer with 24 points. Lucas said Maryland never worried despite falling behind early.

"We're usually a second-half team," he said. "Everyone knew how important the game was, and we were a little tight."

Adrian Dantley, Notre Dame's All-American, scored 25 points.

Greg Ballard leads Oregon to win in NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Greg Ballard scored 23 points and grabbed 15 rebounds and led a second-half rally that carried Oregon past Oral Roberts 68-59 Thursday night in a quarter-final game of the National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Oregon rolled into Saturday's semifinals of the 38th NIT against the winner of Thursday night's second game betweeen South Carolina and Princeton.

Oral Roberts led by nine points at one time in the opening game before Oregon took charge midway through the first half and took a 33-32 halftime advantage behind Ballard.

Ballard had 12 points and nine rebounds in the opening half, this triggeled a 15-4 scoring burst that helped Oregon move to a 48-36 lead with less than 12 minutes remaining.

The Titans' clicked off the next six points, closing to 48-42, but that was the closest they got. Led by Ballard, the Ducks improved their lead to as many as 16 points before Coach Dick Harter sent in his reserves.

Stu Jackson scored 16 points for Oregon, 20-8. Tony Roberts had 18 points, tops for Oral Roberts, which closed out its season at 20-8.

Sutton breezes as Dodgers win by 2 over Expos

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Don Sutton was impressive in five innings as the Dodgers downed the Montreal Expos 4-2 for their sixth straight exhibition baseball victory.

Sutton's five inning stint Thursday was his longest outing of the Grapefruit season. He gave up five scattered hits and walked one. In 16 innings of preseason ball, Sutton has walked only three batters.

A double by Joe Ferguson in the fifth inning gave the Dodgers two runs as Tom Paciorek and Jim Wynn scored. Willie Crawford then singled Ferguson home.

The Dodgers' Dave Lopes had a solo homer in the third.

Left-hander Dave McNally gave up all of the Dodger runs. McNally, who worked five innings, yielded five hits and walked six in his second spring appearance.

The win boosted the Dodgers' spring record to 12 wins in 16 outings.

Ferguson's two runs batted in moved him into a tie with Steve Yaeger for club lead with nine.

In three innings, Eddie Solomon, who is trying to work his way onto the club, gave up only one hit.

The Dodgers listed righthander Rick Rhoden as starting pitcher for a game against the New York Mets in Vero Beach today.

UCLA, ASU squeeze by

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Second-ranked UCLA, which has won seven of the last eight collegiate basketball championships, and seventh-rated Arizona State will meet Saturday afternoon in the finals of the NCAA Western regional tournament.

Neither team was exactly perfect in Thursday night's first round. UCLA edged underdog Montana 67-64, and Arizona State erased an eight-point deficit late in the game to stop 16th-rated Nevada-Las Vegas 84-81.

UCLA, which has won the Western regionals eight consecutive years, needed all the help it could get in disposing of Montana. The Bruins may need more to get past Arizona State for a berth in the NCAA semifinals.

"I can't have anything but praise for Montana," UCLA Coach John Wooden told sports writers after the game. "If you gentlemen as writers try to downgrade UCLA for it being a tight ball game, you'd be very unfair to Montana. They could have beaten a lot of teams tonight. They came close to beating us."

"Call me Mr. Lucky," said Arizona State Coach Ned Wulk after the Sun Devils rallied to overtake Nevada-Las Vegas. "Certainly we were most fortunate, and that is almost an understatement."

UCLA, the Pacific-8 Conference champion, and ASU, the Western Athletic Conference titlist, will square off in Portland following a Saturday morning consolation game between Nevada-Las Vegas and Montana.

If All America forward Dave Meyers had elected to sit out the Montana game, UCLA might have suffered one of the season's biggest upsets. Meyers, a 6-foot-8 senior, has been having trouble with both of his legs in the past month.

"I try not to say too much about it," Wooden said of Meyers. "David isn't playing well." The injuries have discouraged Meyers, he added. "I discussed not playing him at all tonight, win or lose, but he wanted to play."

Meyers finished with 12 points and 5 rebounds.

Eric Hayes, a small 6-3 forward, gave Montana a big lift with 32 points. He was 9-9 from the floor in the first half and wound up 13-16. Ken McKenzie added 20 points.

"I'm happy with the way I played, but I didn't come here to put on a show," said Hayes, who guarded the taller Meyers most of the way. "I came here to win."

Parnelli shocked by suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Parnelli Jones said Thursday he was "shocked and upset" by a damage suit injured race driver Joe Leonard has filed against him.

Attorney Robert Bohn of San Jose, Calif., where Leonard lives, said the suit was filed in Los Angeles Central District Superior Court March 10 against Jones, Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and Vel's Ford Sales of Los Angeles, a tire dealer.

Jones said no papers had been served on him and he had not seen the suit. Jones said he was upset by a report quoting Leonard as saying his only source of income since his injury was a $100 a week check from the U. S. Auto Club Benevolent Fund.

Leonard said he was misquoted in the report and meant that the $100-a-week payments were his only source of income since Jan. 1.

The suit alleges a defective tire and negligence caused Leonard to be severely injured in the crash of a car he was driving for Jones' racing team in the California 500 in March 1974.

Bohn said no dollar figures were mentioned in the suit which he estimated would not come up for a hearing for two or three years.

Leonard, 40, two-time United States Auto Club champion and a national motorcycle racing champion earlier in his career, had earned an annual income in "six figures for many years," Bohn said.

Leonard said he had a $50,000 guarantee last year on a one year contract that gave him 30 per cent of his winnings. He said he could have continued his race career for "four or five more years" had he not been injured.

"Now my career is in jeopardy," Leonard said Thursday night. "I can do very little of what I used to do normally."

Leonard said his left ankle was crushed when the left front tire blew out on the straightaway and his racing car smashed into the inside rail. He said he has "less than 20 per cent use of my left foot and it hurts like the devil."

Jones said of the suit, "I just don't understand it. If he felt he had anything coming from us, the least he could do is call us up and ask for it. I think we've done all we could've for Joe."

Last year, Jones said, his racing firm paid Leonard more than $37,000 and have the checks to prove it. "Our only obligation under our contract was for $24,000," Jones said, "that's what we were obligated to pay.

"We paid him $13,000 more than was called for under our contract, and his wife even called to thank us for the extra money."

Leonard failed a physical examination when he tried to get USAC clearance to drive a car owned by A.J. Foyt in the California 500 earlier this month. Jones said he and his partner, Vel Miletich would have considered entering a car for Leonard had Leonard been able to drive.

Mountie bats cool off but they continue to win

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

MSAC's bats cooled off Thursday afternoon, but it really didn't make any difference, thanks to Larry Pekarcik.

Pekarcik, the hard-throwing righthander who made a name for himself at Damien High last year, pitched a near-flawless nine innings to record his fourth win in five starts as the Mounties won their 15th in a row, 6-0, at MSAC.

Pekarcik had a no hitter for a 5 2-3 innings but settled for a four-hitter with 11 strikeouts and two walks.

Coach Art Mazmanian's hitters managed only six hits of their own but they lumped them sufficiently to push four runs across in the third inning—more than enough for Pekarcik.

The Mounties had been belting the ball all over the park: 47 hits and 42 runs in their last three games.

Mazmanian's club had to look at Thursday's game as a breather from the South Coast Conference campaign which won't resume until April 1 when the Mounites (15-2) visit three-time defending champion Cerritos (12-2).

The Mounties gave Pekarcik all the runs he would need in the third inning.

Ron Roenicke followed with a single to center field, Gary Adair walked and shortstop and team captain Mike Parkinson singled to score Benton. Roenicke followed when the center fielder bobbled the ball.

Adair scored on a passed ball and Parkinson came home when Dan Gans' hard grounder was misplayed by the first baseman.

MSAC added runs in the fifth and sixth.

Parkinson walked and stole second and came around to score on Jerry Hatley's single in the fifth and Marini walked, stole second, went to third on Benton's fly out and scored on a ground ball in the sixth.

Roenicke led the Mounties with two singles in four trips to the plate. Marty Shepherd doubled in the second inning for the only other extra base hit of the game.

Pekarcik was sailing along with a no-hitter until with two outs in the fifth, Jim Thurgood and Tony Benson hit back-to-back singles. Thurgood singled again in the eighth and Pekarcik gave up another base hit in the ninth with two out.

Between now and the South Coast biggie with Cerritos, the Mounties co-host the Easter Tournament with East L.A. next week.

The round-robin tourney starts Tuesday. MSAC hosts Glendale and East L.A. faces L.A. Harbor. Wednesday MSAC hosts Harbor and East L.A. entertains Glendale. Thursday MSAC hosts East L.A. and Harbor faces Glendale. All games are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

Police arrest Dodgers' agent

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — An agent for several Los Angeles Dodgers baseball players has been arrested on drug possession charges after police found him passed out in his car, authorities said today.

Police said they had arrested Herbert Wilford Osmond, 33, of Newport Beach, Calif., and charged him with possession of marijuana, hashish and failure to have his motor vehicle under control.

Dodger officials said Osmond represented players Andy Messersmith, Doug Rau, Bill Russell and Bill Buckner. All but Messersmith have come to terms on a new contract.

Two patrolmen discovered Osmond early Thursday morning slumped over in the front seat of his his car, which had hit a propane gas cylinder next to a Fort Lauderdale restaurant, authorities said.

Police said marijuana and amounts of hashish were discovered in the car.

Osmond was released after posting $3,050 bond. No court appearance has been scheduled yet.

BASEBALL (?) IS HERE AGAIN —Yankee's manager Bill Virdon, center with glasses, is wrestled to ground in sixth inning of Yanks-Tigers game Thursday. No one was hurt although both dugouts emptied.

May require real Rangers for Yankees-Rangers games

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The real Texas Rangers may be needed to keep the peace the next time their baseball namesakes square off with the New York Yankees.

The year-old feud between New York center fielder Elliott Maddox and Texas Manager Billy Martin erupted in a beanball war during the Rangers' 3-2 10-inning exhibition victory Thursday. It wound up with Yankee skipper Bill Virdon entangled on the ground with Texas outfielder Jeff Burroughs, the American League's Most Valuable Player.

The hard feelings began last spring when, according to Maddox, who was then with the Rangers, Martin reneged on a promise to give him plenty of playing time. Shortly thereafter, Maddox was sold to the Yankees.

Maddox repeated his charges in a local newspaper last week. "He lied to me," Maddox said. "That makes him a liar. He said things to me last season when I was at home plate.

"I walked on the field before the game and none of the Ranger players would talk to me. It was a little upsetting because I was as close to most of those guys as the guys here. But I knew they had their orders from Martin..."

Maddox reported this sequence of events when he came to bat in the first inning against Jim Bibby:

"His first pitch was over the plate and that surprised me. The next pitch was a slider low and away and I figured I better watch out. That's a set-up pitch to get you to lean over the plate. If I hadn't been looking for it, the next pitch would have hit me in the head."

As it was, it clipped Maddox on the shoulder. In short order:

New York's Rudy May brushed back Texas' Joe Lovitto an inning later.

—Maddox' bat flew halfway to mound in the third inning.

—Texas' Stan Thomas fired a pitch over Maddox' head in the sixth.

—New York's Mike Wallace did it twice to Texas' Dave Nelson in the seventh...and that was the last straw.

Nelson started toward the mound and Virdon charged from the dugout. He had words with Martin and Nelson, who flicked his hand at the Yankee manager. Soon, Virdon and Burroughs were rolling on the ground amidst the pushing and shoving.

Martin denied he ordered his pitchers to throw at Maddox. Maddox, of course, had a different version. "When Billy Martin is the manager, you expect anything," said the outfielder.

"Our guys were not told to throw at Maddox," Martin insisted. "But our guys can read...I think he made our players madder than me."

Williams approves of Halos win over Tribe

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "We stole two or three runs with our legs. I hope that's indicative of what we'll be able to do when the season starts," said California Angels' Manager Dick Williams.

Williams had just watched Mickey Rivers rap two doubles as the Angels whiped the Cleveland Indians, 5-1, Thursday to run their exhibition record to 7-2. The Indians are 1-5.

Shortstop Orlando Ramirez and outfielder Morris Nettles each singled, stole second and scored during the victory and Rivers stretched a single into a double before coming home.

California took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on doubles by Rivers and Tommy Harper and a triple by Bruce Bochte.

Rico Carty doubled and Jack Brohammer singled for the Indians' only run in the fifth.

Pitcher Nolan Ryan was to make his second start of the spring in Palm Springs this afternoon against the Chicago Cubs. The strike out artist went three hitless innings in his first start.

Tates Locke resigns

Clemson coach out

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Amid a flurry of rumors regarding a National Collegiate Athletic Association investigation into the Clemson recruiting program, Tates Locke has resigned as head basketball coach of the South Carolina school, effective immediately.

Locke, contacted at home in Easley, S.C., told The Associated Press his resignation was the result of pressure which built up during the entire basketball season.

"There were a lot of personal rumors, accusations and allegations that were very difficult to live with," he said.

Locke, 38, said his decision had nothing to do with basketball.

"You can divorce basketball from this completely. I'm just tired of it. A basketball coach is not a politician and it has been very difficult for me. The public has been very ruthless," Locke said.

The former Clemson coach said he was due to sign two outstanding basketball players Thursday night, but called them to tell them of his decision.

"They wanted to know where I was going, so they could go there," he said.

"I love Clemson. I think it has the basketball program of the future and it is very difficult for me to resign. I've talked to the seniors on the basketball team and they were stunned. All the players are super guys," Locke added.

Clemson Athletic Director Bill McLellan said Locke declined to give any reason for his decision. "We are very appreciative of the guidance coach Locke has given our basketball program. He has recruited quality players, has made us competitive in the Atlantic Coast Conference, attendance has more than doubled since he came here five years ago and he has brought us into the national limelight with our best record since the 1966-67 season," McLellan said.

McLellan said he hopes the recent rumors and allegations concerning violations in the recruitment of basketball athletes had nothing to do with the resignation.

Clemson completed its season last Saturday, losing to Providence in the opening round of the National Invitational Tournament in New York, the Tigers' first participation in a post-season tournament.

Clemson was ranked nationally for the first two months of the season for the first time in history, going as high as 11th.

Their record for the past season was 17-11, the best in eight years.

Locke won March 18, 1970 after four years at Miami of Ohio. Prior to that, he was head coach for two years at Army.

He carried teams from all three schools to the NIT and took one Miami team to the NCAA post-season tournament.

Locke's overall Clemson record stands at 62-70. In his 11 years as a head basketball coach he holds a 159-127 record.

McLellan said "no thought has been given to a successor for Locke" but the school is launching an immediate search for a new coach.

Webster voted top player

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Webster, a shot-blocking marvel called "The Human Eraser," is The Associated Press College Division Player of the Year for 1974-75.

Morgan State's center was selected Thursday in a countrywide vote of sports writers and broadcasters, outscoring such basketball stars as Gerald Cunningham of Kentucky State, Lloyd Free of Guilford and Jackson State's Eugene Short.

Webster won by an eyelash over Cunningham, his nearest competitor, and took home his second straight Player of the Year prize.

Webster is on the "Most Wanted" list by professional teams and has been called a "near-pro" franchise by scouts. The 6-foot-11, 240-pound senior, who owes his colorful nickname to awesome shot-blocking talents, is certain to be somebody's No. 1 pick in this year's pro draft.

Heart and soul of the Morgan State team, Webster averaged 17.4 rebounds and 16.4 points a game this season. His ability to swat away shots with ease has classified Webster as the top center in the nation this season, bar none.

A case of hepatitis silenced Morgan State's big gun for a while, but he still made the most noise of any frontcourt player in the nation and led Morgan State to a 19-8 record this season.

Morgan State lost two games on forfeit when its players quit after Coach Nate Frazier was suspended by school authorities for remarks he made against officials in a game against Brockport State. Frazier later was reinstated and Webster picked up where he left off.

Webster made 56 per-cent of his shots from the field and also averaged more than two assists a game, a figure that points up his well-rounded floor play. He was recognized as a supreme team leader.

Webster, son of a minister, is a soft-spoken giant who emerged from Baltimore's school system to become the dominant small college player of his time. He reads the Bible an hour every day and points out: "If you have time for anything else, why shouldn't you have time for the Bible?"

Webster, a socially-aware athlete, says he wants to build a basketball camp for kids with the money that he makes from his impending pro contract, expected to be a real blockbuster.

Frazier, Webster's coach at Morgan State for the past three years, has described him as "extremely coachable and a nice, pleasant kid."

Besides Webster and Cunningham, others to get votes in the Player of the Year poll included: Cliff Pratt of Shaw College; Bill Lindsay, Fairmount State; John Grochowalski, Assumption; Wilbur Holland, New Orleans; Mike Fahey, Brandeis; Gerry Walker, Gannon; Fletcher Johnson, Randolph-Macon; Mark Klein, Malone; David Schleaser, Morningside and Dwaine Govan, Bishop.

A DOUBLE WINNER — San Dimas High's Kevin Kellog crosses the finish line in winning the mile run against Ontario Thursday in Hacienda League track action. Kellogg won both the mile and two mile, but San Dimas lost the meet.

Ontario tops S.D.

It had to finally happen, and as far as Coach Jim George of the San Dimas Saint's track team said. "We now just have to start a new string." This came after his San Dimas team had fallen to the Ontario Jaguars, 63-55, Thursday afternoon.

The string George was talking about was 28 straight dual track meets without a loss. It took the final event of the day, the mile relay, to give the Jaguars the victory.

Marcus Jennings paced the Ontario team with three first place finishes: the 100, 220 and the long jump. The Jaguars took first in five other events, Gil McCroey in the 880, Scott Newsome in the 440, Jim Donaldson, a 14.5 in the 120 high hurdles (second best reported time in the CIF), Alan Achatz in the shot, and the mile relay.

The only double winner for the Saints was Kevin Kellogg, taking both the mile and the two-mile.

Both teams had a complete sweep in one event, San Dimas taking the high jump, and Ontario the long jump.

The big match between Shelley White and Donaldson never materialized in the 120 high hurdles as Donaldson blew White off. White got some revenge with a 10-yard win in the 330 lows and then helped win the 440 relay.

Tony Atkinson won the pole vault with a 12-6, and Colin Fenderson took the high jump at 6-2.

The excitement was really mounting as the score flipped-flopped back and forth between the two teams, setting up the mile relay as the decider.

Walnut rolls

Mark Anderson scored a double win in the field events to lift Walnut High to an easy 99-19 victory over Bonita in Hacienda League track action Thursday.

Anderson won the high jump at 5-8, and also captured first place in the pole vault at 10-0.

Walnut won all the field events, and took firsts in eight of the 10 running events, including the two relays.

Kings' rally defeats Blues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Murphy and Danny Maloney struck for third-period goals to rally Los Angeles to a 3-2 National Hockey League victory over St. Louis Thursday night.

Outstanding goaltending by the Blues' Eddie Johnston stymied the Kings for the first two periods as the 39-year-old veteran turned back five Los Angeles breakaway attempts while his teammates took a 2-0 lead.

Defenseman Larry Sacharuk's 18th goal shot the Blues onto a 1-0 lead with only 11 seconds left in the first period and St. Louis made it 2-0 at 2:42 of the second period on Floyd Thomson's fifth goal of the season.

The Kings finally connected against Johnston at 14:38 of the second period when Whitey Widing blasted a slap shot from 35 feet away.

Murphy took a pass from Larry Brown and beat Johnston from 10 feet to even the score at 2-2 at 4:55 of the final period.

The Kings scored on a powerplay with just under 12 minutes left to play to take a 3-2 lead when defenseman Sheldon Kannegiesser's drive from 45 feet away bounced into the net off Maloney's foot.

St. Louis coach Gary Young was miffed at a decision by referee Brian Lewis on Maloney's game winning goal. After the game Young contended that Maloney had been in the crease when he scored, but Lewis ruled Maloney was pushed into the area.

"He possibly cost us first place tonight," Young said. His team is now three points behind Division II-leading Vancouver.

Kings' Coach Bob Pulford thought the victory was an important one.

"We had been losing and we had to break out of this slump," he said.

Devils overpower Cowboys in track

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Correspondent

Not since the mid-60's when Pomona High captured four San Antonio League championships (1965-69, all unbeaten seasons) have the Red Devils been so strong in track.

Pomona unleashed its depth on Chino High Thursday afternoon and came away with a convincing 82-36 rout while notching its fourth straight dual meet win and second in SAL play.

Shot Putter Hank Zibell broke his own school record with a lifetime best toss of 57-3. The Red Devil junior surpassed his own mark of 56-4 set in January at the Southern California Indoor Track Meet.

"I should be throwing farther, but I'm satisfied," said Zibell. "I hope to go 63 feet by the State Meet and beat (Dave) Kurrasch (of Newport Harbor). He's the best in the country right now (63-11½)."

Dwayne Jackson and Barry Boettcher enjoyed big days for the SAL co-leaders (tied with Ganesha and Upland). Jackson a Pomona senior hurdler, scored a double win in the 120 highs and the 330 intermediate hurdles and anchored the winning mile relay team.

Jackson, who starred at PHS his sophomore year before spending last year in Texas, turned in a 120 high mark of 14.7, third best reported time in the CIF. His 330 winning time was 39.6. Boettcher scored wins in the mile (4:35.8) and two mile (10:06.0) runs, edging teammate Ken Dent in both events.

Chino's top athlete was the impressive Jayson Law. The Cowboy sprint star captured the 100 and 220 yard dashes, placed fourth in the long jump and anchored both the mile and 440-yard relay teams.

Law, a junior, nipped Lloyd Landry at the wire to win the 100-yard dash in a 9.8 clocking, tying for the second best reported time in the CIF, and then turned in the third best CIF clocking for the 220 with a mark of 22.5.

Owls edge S'western, 6-5; Panthers pound OCC, 12-2

Citrus College played its sixth game in seven days Thursday and the result was a 6-5 Mission Conference win over Southwestern in 12 innings.

The Owls beat Chaffey earlier this week, 5-4, in 13 innings and their record is 17-4 in the conference standings.

Chaffey opened the Fullerton Tournament Thursday with a 12-2 victory over Orange Coast. The Panthers play Cerritos at 2 p.m. today. Virgil Moore (5-3) will start for the Panthers who are 14-5 overall.

Citrus came up with four runs in the ninth inning to tie Southwestern at 5-5 and then won it with a single tally in the bottom of the 12th.

Todd Irvin singled to open the 12th and three consecutive walks by Southwestern relief pitcher Joe Patton pushed Irvin across with the winning run.

In the ninth, singles by Frank Convertino, Gary Bach and Kim Eppard, a sacrifice fly by Joe Sansom, two walks and an error pushed four runs across to tie the score.

Chaffey scored in each inning except the third, fourth and sixth to rout Orange Coast.

The Panthers stole eight bases, including three by Steve Young and two by Dennis Hawkins. Young had three hits including a double, with two runs batted in. He scored five times.

Mike Walters singled and doubled to drive in three runs and David Demuth singled twice to drive in two runs.

La Verne spikers end up third in tri-meet

La Verne College's Dan Palko and Dara Lanier recorded victories Thursday in track competition, but it wasn't enough as the Leopards finished third in a tri-meet with Chapman and Biola.

Chapman won the meet with 78 points, followed by Biola's 72 and La Verne's 23.

Palko won the long jump at 19-9½, while Lanier captured the shot put at 45-11½.

Chapman's Dave Rohrig won the 100- in 9.9 seconds and the 220 in 22.6 seconds. Biola's Gary Pate took firsts in the half mile (2:07.8) and mile (4.37.6).

Chapman's Dave Powell dominated the hurdle events with wins in the 120 highs (15.2 seconds) and the 440 intermediates (59.6).

In other valley college track action Thursday, Azusa Pacific's Bruce Kupersmith won the California Invitational Decathlon at APC, setting a school record with 6,477 points.

APC's Roger Johnson finished second with 6,136 points, and Pomona-Pitzer's Steve Syverson ended up in third place with 5,713 points.

Only four schools and six athletes competed in the two-day event.

L.V. Lutheran wins

RIVERSIDE — Ed Harness pitched a three-hitter through five and a third innings and also collected two hits and four runs batted in to lead La Verne Lutheran High to a 14-10 victory over CSDR here Thursday afternoon in an Arrowhead League baseball opener for both schools.

Harness, who watched his team commit eight errors, got the victory on the mound although he was bailed out by reliever Gregg Guenther in the sixth, when CSDR scored five runs.

Art Moeller held the hot bat for La Verne, going three-for-three with three RBIs.

La Verne visits Sherman Indian Institute today in another league encounter at 3 p.m.

P.C. girls lose SAL finale

Pomona Catholic High's girls basketball team closed out its San Antonio League season Thursday afternoon but on a sour note. The P.C. girls, led by Diane Lisby's 12 points and Laura Mello's 10 points and seven defensive steals, were defeated by Claremont's girls, 46-33.

Pomona Catholic finished the season with a 5-3 league record.

In the junior varsity game, Pomona Catholic defeated Claremont 45-13.

Valley wrestlers face Japan team

A group of Foothill Wrestling Association All-Stars will battle the Japanese High School Cultural Exchange team Saturday night at Nogales High beginning at 6 p.m.

The meet will feature the top high school wrestlers from the Pomona and San Gabriel valleys against the Japanese national high school champions.

Admission to the event is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Johnson lifts 'Pack girls to track win

Sprinter Staci Johnson won two events and competing in two winning relay teams to pace Claremont High's girls track team to a 64-27 victory over Costa Mesa Thursday at Don Antonio Lugo High in Chino.

Miss Johnson tied her own school record in winning the 100 yard dash in 11.5 seconds. She also won the 220 and ran the anchor leg in the 880 medley relay, which won in 2:02.5. She competed in the Wolfpack's winning quarter mile relay team too.

Jenny Stary was a triple winner for Claremont, taking firsts in the 80-yard hurldes, the high jump and the long jump (14-11).

Claremont is now 4-1 for the season and will next compete in the Coachella Relays Saturday.

The Claremont junior varsity team also won, defeating Don Lugo, 79-12. That team is now 4-0.

S.D. gymnasts topple Ontario

Gay Rampick scored two victories Thursday afternoon two pace San Dimas High's girls gymnastics team to a 52.9-42.1 victory over Ontario in Hacienda League competition.

Miss Rampick won the vaulting with 6.2 points and tied with teammate Mary Rudolph in the free floor exercise with 6.8 points each.

Other winners included Ontario's Tina Kubicek in the uneven bars (1.9 points), Ontario's Christy Smith in the balance beam (4.9 points), and San Dimas' Anita Shoemaker in the all-around (16.9 points). San Dimas' Lisa Miller finished second in the all-around with 14.5 points.

Poor set shooters

DEMING, N.M. (AP) — "Our free throwing cost us the game," said Coach Wendy Dudley. The comment came in reference to the Deming High School girls' basketball team's 43-37 loss to Gadsden.

The coach said her squad made only three of 33 free throws in the defeat.

Rogers, Mitchell push Azusa Pacific past SLO

Mark Rogers blasted a two-run double in the third inning, and Curt Mitchell added a solo home run in the fifth to pace Azusa Pacific College to a 3-2 victory over Cal Poly San Luis Obispo Thursday in valley college baseball action.

After two and a half innings of a scoreless deadlock, Bob Reeve got APC going with a free pass on balls from SLO starting pitcher John Freebaugh. Mike Odom then singled, and Rogers sent them both home with his double.

Cal Poly rallied back to tie the score in the top of the fifth, and APC starter Brad Kramer was relieved by Terry Sheehan after giving up only two runs on two hits. Sheehan finished up for the Cougars, giving up one hit in 4 1-3 innings of work.

Sheehan got the victory on the mound after Mitchell led off the bottom of the fifth with his solo homer to right field.

The game was more or less a pitching duel, with neither team getting more than three hits. Freebaugh went the distance for SLO, fanning eight and walking only one.

APC is now 9-7 for the season, and will host Point Loma Saturday in a doubleheader.

NBA hassles over Buffalo general mgr.

BUFFALO (AP) — With rumors flying that he has already reached an agreement with the New York Knicks to return as their general manager next season, Eddie Donovan has told the Buffalo Braves that he will no longer be their general manager after April 1.

Neither Donovan nor officials for the Knicks could be reached for comment after that announcement was made late Thursday night.

In a prepared statement, a spokesman for the National Basketball Association club said, "Eddie Donovan has informed the Braves that he will not continue as general manager after April 1.

"Despite the many newspaper, radio and television stories reporting that Eddie will join the New York Knicks as general manager, he has told us that he has made no plans for the future and that he has not even spoken with the Knicks. We tave no explanation for the discrepancy nor do we know of any other NBA teams which Eddie has contacted.

"The Braves made every possible effort to keep Eddie in Buffalo. In fact, the Braves beieved that they had reached a new three-year agreement with him last summer. Since last August, Eddie has been receiving a substantial salary increase and other benefits agreed to in the 1974 negotiations. His compensation is among the highest for general managers in the NBA."

Bruins star hopes to play

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins center Phil Esposito, who injured his left knee in Montreal Wednesday night, might be able to return to action during the weekend, the National Hockey League club said Thursday.

The announcement came after Dr. Carter Rowe examined Esposito at Massachusetts General Hospital.

"It's a day-to-day proposition," said trainer Dan Canney. "Dr. Rowe has told Phil to take whirlpool treatments and give the knee as much rest as possible. The doctor feels Phil possibly can play on the weekend."

The Bruins face Washington here Saturday night and on Sunday play the Rangers in New York.

Loves that Kelso

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Garden State Park racing steward Carl Hanford says he visits Kelso on the farm whenever he gets a chance. Hanford trained Kelso during the gelding's five straight years as horse of the year.

Kelso has stood at Mrs. Richard Dupont's Woodstock Farm in Chesapeake City, Md., since his retirement from racing in 1966. He ran 63 times during eight years of competition. He won 31 stakes races including five Jockey Club Gold Cups.

Test compacts at Sebring

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Two races one a three-hour trek for small sedans, kicked off two days of sports car competition at ancient Sebring today.

On the schedule were a 100-kilometer chase for Formula Super Vees, part of the International Gold Cup series, and a three-hour test for compact production cars of the Gremlin, Pinto, Vega and Datsun class.

Alson on the agenda were qualifying trials for Saturday's 23rd Sebring 12-hour race.

Amos Johnson of Raleigh, N.C., top winner in the series last year, was favored in the sedan race in a factory-backed Gremlin. Among co-favorites were Gene Felton of Atlanta in a Hornet, Dennis Shaw of Raleigh in a Gremlin, Bob McGraw of Atlanta in a Hornet, and Nick Craw of Washington, D.C., in a BMW 2002.

Tom Bagley of Sate College, Pa., Howdy Holmes of Alexandria, Va., Bob Lazier of Vail, Colo., and Richard Melsville, Kingston, Jamaica, were among top entries in the Formula Super Vee event.

Holmes set the qualifying pace for the Super Vee cars by posting a speed of 108.16 miles per hour around the bumpy, Saturn Sebring layout that measures 5.2 miles.

A pair of factory-entered BMW cars from Germany were expected to grab the front row spots in qualifying for Saturday's 12-hour marathon for heavier, more powerful sports cars.

One of the German-made machines shattered the course mark for Grand Touring cars by almost five miles per hour in unofficial practice Thursday.

Hans Stuck Jr., 24-year-old son of a noted German driver of the World War II era, posted an unofficial lap of 111.17 m.p.h. The old course mark for this type car was 106.96 m.p.h. set two years ago.

Not only that, Britisher Brian Redman drove another BMW to the second best speed, 107.02 m.p.h. John Greenwood of Troy, Mich., who had been expected to top the speed duel in his $100,000 Corvette, could do no better than 106.85 m.p.h.

Thus, if the BMW speeds hold up in today's official qualifying, they will have the front row spots for Saturday's race, with as many as 70 cars lined up behind them.

The Porsche Carrera of Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood, winners of the recent Daytona 24-hour race and defending champions at Sebring, failed to make the top 10 in practice. The two experienced oil leak problems which they promised would be corrected in time for today's official runs.

With good weather promised, at least 40,000 fans are expected to jam the race area Saturday.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Buffalo Bills' quarterback Joe Ferguson broke his left wrist Thursday when he slipped and fell while unloading his fishing boat in front of his apartment here.

Ferguson, who led the Bills into the NFL playoffs last season, is here during the off-season taking graduate courses and helping coach the Northwestern State University football team.

The right-handed thrower said he also suffered a gash that required seven stitches on his forehead.

He'd been fishing all day. "It's been a bad day all around," he said. "I only caught one fish. I should have stayed in bed."

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Coach of the Year selections for small colleges were announced Thursday by a National Association of Basketball Coaches committee.

Chosen were Al Shields of Bentley (Mass.) College, William Kalbaugh of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Paul Webb of Randolph-Macon College, Phil Roach of Marietta (Ohio) College, Dave Gunther of the University of North Dakota and Ben Lindsey of Grand Canyon College.

The announcement was made by selection committee chairman Lucius Mitchell, basketball coach at Kentucky State University.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The first National Singles Pro Handball Championship will be held here April 13-18, Robert W. Kendler, president of the U.S. Handball Association, said today. The event will be the feature of the National U.S Handball Association Four-Wall Championships.

Fred Lewis of Birmingham, Ala., last year's pro tour champion and top money-earner, is among those expected to compete in the singles tournament.

NEW YORK — No. 2 seed Vitas Gerulaitis of Howard Beach, N.Y. beat Australian Ian Fletcher 6-4, 7-6 to advance to the quarter-finals of the Independent Players Association Tennis Tournament.

CARACAS, Venezuela — Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia advanced to the quarter-finals of the WCT Blue Group Tournament by defeating Teimura Kakulia of the Soviet Union 6-7, 6-3, 6-1.

DALLAS — Second-seeded Evonne Goolagong of Australia overpowered Valerie Ziegenfuss 6-2, 6-2 to move into the quarter-finals of the $75,000 Maureen Connolly Brinker Women's Tournament.

MEMPHIS — The top-seeded team of Dick Stockton and Erik van Dillen defeated Barry Phillips-Moore and Raz Reid 6-3, 6-4 in a first-round doubles match in the World Championship Tennis Memphis Classic.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Mac McLendon, who almost quit the pro golf tour late last year, matched Barney Thompson's 67 and the two established a one-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer and five others in the first round of the $150,000 Greater Jacksonville Open.

NEW ORLEANS — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., led the 24 qualifiers into the semifinals of the $80,000 New Orleans Open Bowling Tournament.

DENVER (AP) — The Sports Car Club of America announced Thursday a preliminary schedule of six events for the 1975 Trans-American Championship series.

The series begins with the May 4 Formula 5000 championship at Pocono International Raceway.

Others races will be at Sears Point International Raceway, Sonoma, Calif.; Portland International Raceway; Nelson Ledges Road Course near Warren, Ohio and the Trans-Am at Brainerd International Raceway, Brainerd, Minn. Sept. 7.

KOESSEN, Austria (AP) — David Cronk of Torrance, Calif., won the first World Alpine Hang Gliding championship Thursday, beating Switzerland's Werner Tscherne and fellow American Roy Haggard.

Cronk, 26, had 89.53 of 100 possible points with his kite. Tscherne had 82.15 and Haggard 78.

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia and Scabolz Taroczy of Hungary have been barred by their countries from playing in a tennis tournament in this South African city April 10-19, it was announced Thursday. Many Eastern European nations do not let their athletes compete in South Africa because it its apartheid policy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Heldman has been named playing captain of the 1975 U.S. Federation Cup team which will compete May 5-11 at Aixen-Provence, France.

Miss Heldman, ranked as the No. 5 woman player by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will be representing her country in Federation Cup play for the fifth time and in international team play for the 13th time.

Seagren in Vitalis meet

Bob Seagren is the man most Americans first think of when the pole vault is mentioned. And justifiably so, since he may be the greatest ever.

His list of achievements is amazing. He has set world indoor records eight times, outdoor records six times, 15 American records, 10 national collegiate records and four professional records. He is the current world record holder outdoors with a valult of 18-5¾, and has the second best indoor vault ever for an American, along with International Track Association opponent Buddy Williamson, at 17-8 (fellow ITA vaulter Steve Smith is the record-holder at 18-2½).

Bob was the American outdoor champion in 1966, 1969 and 1970, and American indoor champ in 1967 and 1970; NCAA indoor champ in 1967 and outdoor champ in 1967 and 1969. He won the U.S. Olympic Trials in both 1968 and 1972, each time with a world record effort. He won the 1968 Gold Medal with an Olympic record 17-8½, and won the Silver Medal in 1972.

It's hard to stay on top for so many years, and, as Seagren says, "There have been times when I've regretted all the work, all the training, all the time spent and apparently wasted. But then you get it all together in one good jump, the music plays in your head, and you know it's been worth it.

"And I'll keep at it for awhile yet. I feel 19 feet is within reach, and soon. To me, the basic ingredients for a 19-foot vault are speed on the runway, and raising my grip on the pole."

In two years and three meets as a pro, Seagren has 10 victories and total winnings of $8,000. He has also competed in the Superstars since its beginning, winning the first competition in 1973, then placing second last year and this year. All told, he has won over $120,000 prize money from the Superstars.

Seagren was the world's top-ranked vaulter in 1968 and 1969, and was second in 1966, 1967 and 1972. He wants to be No. 1 again, but his nemesis is Smith, who had nine wins last year on the ITA tour.

A fierce rivalry has developed between these two, and with each pushing the other, it's very possible the world will see its first 19-foot vault this year.

Seagren will be competing in the Vitalis Pro Track Classic at the Los Angeles Sports Arena Saturday. The meet begins at 1 p.m.

NFL owners, players ready for fight over Rozelle Rule

HONOLULU (AP) — National Football League owners and their players ready their lines for battle again with neither side knowing what the other really wants, but neither wanting another costly strike.

The principal fighting front will be the Rozelle Rule, compensating a club which has lost a player to another outfit in the league.

At their annual meeting at Waikiki Beach, the owners reaffirmed their belief that there must be compensation or the richer teams will get richer at the expense of the others.

Players want the compensation rule thrown out legally and have sued in a trial already started at Minneapolis. Owners want option compensation included in collective bargaining.

John Thompson, executive director of the NFL management council, said he was optimistic over-all agreement could be reached on a contract with the players association, but added, "I don't know how far apart we are today."

He expects negotiations to be resumed in mid-April, adding, " I detect overall changes in attitude" over this time a year ago. "I think the overall economic situation makes it more imparative that we have a contract. We're starting a whole new ball game."

Neither management nor the players have put their 195 proposals on the table.

"We have not determined exactly what our position will be," the chief negotiator for the NFL added.

Sargent Karch, general counsel for the management council, added, "We want to negotiate a contract that will include everything. Players have taken the stand that they don't want the compensation clause in the collective bargaining item but would rather sue.

"Loss of the compensation clause would take the heart out of our program.

Owners Wellington Mara of the New York Giants, Rankin Smith of Atlanta, Ralph Wilson of Buffalo, Joe Robbie of Miami, Art Modell of Cleveland and President George Halas Jr., of the Chicago Bears were all re-named to the council's executive committee. They do the negotiating.

Thompson said that when negotiations were broken off last year, $11.5 million was the monetary difference between the two sides. Much of that was in the pension area.

He said the pension package in the agreement signed in 1970 was $19 million and owners last year offered $25 million in an Aug. 27 proposal.

Teams evenly matched in Riverside baseball tourney

RIVERSIDE — Picking the winner of this year's Riverside Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament may be impossible. The field of eight teams is so evenly matched, any one of the entries in the six-day tourney could win it.

Arizona, with a 17-2 won-loss mark, brings the best record into the tournament, while Southern Illinois and Cornell haven't even played a game yet.

Santa Clara, with a strong pitching staff, has compiled a 16-4 record to date while two Pac-8 entrants — Stanford, 11-10, and Washington State, 8-2 — are primed and eager for their trip south.

Stanford, a two-time Riverside Tournament winner, has won its last five games in a row, with UCR, winner of its last three games, 6-10 overall.

Tournament play opens Monday morning at UCR Field when Cornell meets Washington State at 11 a.m., while SMU and UCR clash at Evans Park in downtown Riverside at the same time.

Arizona, Southern Methodist, Washington State and UCR are in the Blue Division. Stanford, Cornell, Santa Clara, and Southern Illinois are in the Gold Division.

Each of the teams plays the others — a total of seven games — and the teams with the best won-loss records in the respective divisions play Saturday night March 29 for the championship.

Joe 'Ducky' Medwick dies at 63 in Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Joe "Ducky" Medwick, Baseball Hall of Famer and a triple crown winner for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1937, died early today at Bayfront Medical Center. He was 63.

Medwick, current minor league hitting instructor for the Cardinals, was taken to the hospital Thursday night after complaining of chest pains and died of an apparent heart attack.

Medwick was with the Cardinals from 1932 to 1940 when he was traded to the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was back with the Cardinals for two years before he retired in 1948.

He was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1968.

A great hitter in his heyday with the boisterous "Gashouse Gang" St. Louis Cardinals in the 1930s, Medwick held a unique distinction at the time of his death. He was the last National Leaguer to win the triple crown of batting, runs-batted-in and home runs in one season. He accomplished the feat in 1937 and it stood the test of time for 38 years.

That year Medwick had a batting average of .374, drove in 154 runs and hit 31 home runs. Actually it was 32 home runs, but one was washed out. In addition, he led the league in run scoring with 111, in hits with 237 and in doubles with 56. It was a spectacular season that brought him the honor of being named the NL's Most Valuable Player for 1937.

Ducky, so-called because he walked like a duck, was born Joseph Michael Medwick Nov. 4, 1911 at Carteret, N.J. He played the outfield, threw and batted right-handed. He stood 5feet-10 inches and in his playing prime weighed 178 pounds.

Medwick, inducted into Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1968, started and ended his major league career with the Cardinals and, at the time of his passing, was a minor league batting instructor with the Cards.

Altogether he played 17 years in the majors, including service with the Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants, Boston Braves, and New York Yankees after he was traded by the Cardinals to Brooklyn in 1940.

During his major league career, in which started in 1932 as a 20-year-old and ended in 1948, he compiled a batting average of .324 on 2,471 hits in 7,635 times at-bat. He hit 205 homers, drove in 1,383 runs, hit 540 doubles and 113 triples. In the outfield he made 4,125 putouts and had 142 assists. His fielding average was .980.

Medwick played in two World Series, with the Cardinals in 1934 when they beat the Detroit Tigers, and with Brooklyn in 1941 when they lost to the New York Yankees. He hit .379 in the 1934 Series and .235 in 1941.

Medwick was involved in a notable incident during the seventh and final game of the 1934 Series. He had a run-in with the Detroit third baseman, Marv Owen, going into third. Medwick claimed Owen tried to stamp on him and so he kicked back. Neither attempt succeeded.

Annemarie Proell retiring after losing special slalom

ORTISEI, Italy (AP) — Annemarie Proell, who has wrapped up an unprecedented fifth World Cup ski crown, announced her retirement after she was beaten Thursday by Lise Marie Morerod in a special slalom ski race in this Dolomite resort.

Miss Proell, the Austrian ace who has won 42 international races in her illustrious career, said Sunday's parallel race would be her last.

"I said earlier I would quit after winning a World Cup slalom," she told a Vienna radio station. "And I skied for three years in an effort to win one, but I simply couldn't make it."

Miss Morerod, a 19-year-old from Switzerland, won both heats for a total time of 70.39 seconds and her fourth triumph of the season. Miss Proell was second in 71.29.

Miss Proell added five points to the World Cup standings for an unbeatable 305 points with only Sunday's race remaining. Hanni Wenzel of Lichtenstein, who finished 13th in Thursday's race is second with 199 points, Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany is third with 166 and Miss Morerod and teammate Bernadette Zurbriggen are tied for fourth with 151 each.

If Miss Proell cannot be persuaded to continue skiing, Austria will be without its most reliable competitor for the 1976 Olympics at Innsbruck less than a year from now. Miss Proell was reported to be disillusioned by strife within the Austrian ski team.

"I had a lengthy discussion with her yesterday," said Herbert Moser, Miss Proell's husband, "and she is absolutely adamant in her wish to quit skiing."

Miss Morerod was clocked in 35.09 and 35.30 on her runs down the track spoiled by melting snow under a warm sun after a full day and night of heavy snowfall. Miss Proell finished second in the first heat and third in the second. Austrian Monika Kaserer finished third with a time of 71.61.

Fabienne Serrat beat her French teammate Danielle Debernard for fourth place. Miss Serrat was clocked in 71.76 and Miss Debernard in 71.82. All except one of the other top 10 finishers were from West Germany. Pam Behr was sixth in 72.02, Miss Mittermaier seventh in 72.18, Christa Zechmeister eighth in 72.37 and Monika Berwein 10th in 73.80. Miss Zurbriggen of Switzerland was ninth in 73.16.

Abigail Fisher, 18, of South Conway, N.H., was the only American finisher. She took 12th place in 74.07. Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., and Lindy Cochran of Richmond, Vt., were disqualified following gate faults.

Saturday's World Cup finale, the dual slalom on parallel courses, is a new event this year.

While the women battled in the slalom, the men trained on the "Saslong" track for Friday's downhill, which along with a dual slalom on Sunday, will decide the men's World Cup title.

Austria's Franz Klammer, Italy's Gustavo Thoeni and Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark all have a shot at the title.

Erik Haker of Norway clocked the fastest time in the three practice runs Thursday, flashing down the 3,420-meter course, with a drop of 839 meters, in 2.08.35 minutes.

Ashtray, Tallahto lead San Luis Rey entries

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Turf-loving Astray, seeking a second straight victory in the event, and Tallahto, the first mare entered in the marathon race in four years, headed the field of entries Thursday for the $110,500 San Luis Rey Stakes at 1½ miles Saturday over the grass at Santa Anita.

William Haggin Perry's Astray took the San Luis Rey last year and the San Juan Capistrano.

The stretch-running 6-year-old, with Jacinto Vasquez assigned to ride, seeks to become only the second horse to win the long run two years in a row.

Cedar Key won it in 1965 and a division of the race in 1966.

Don Pierce will be aboard Tallahto, a 5-year-old making her first grass course appearance since she ran away from the guys in the $100,000 Oak Tree Invitational last November.

Tallahto also won the turf-run Carleton F. Burke 'cap at 1¼ miles last fall.

The weight-for-age event has all the older horses carrying 126 pounds, except Tallahto who gets 121 with a five pound sex allowance.

Also entered are Toujours Pret with Bill Shoemaker seeking his eighth victory in the San Luis Rey; Okavango who was also listed with Vasquez riding; Ga Hai with Jerry Lambert; Jorge Tejeira aboard Trojan Bronze; Coupe De Feu with Fernando Toro and Monmarte with Sandy Hawley.

If all eight go to the post for the 24th running of the race the winner's purse will be $65,500 with $20,000 for second and $15,000 for third.

Astray, who won the 1974 running over Big Spruce and Quack, has been raced infrequently by trainer David A. Whitely with a second in a mile outing and seventh in the San Antonio Stakes although both were on the main track at shorter distances.

Tallahto, owned by Mrs. Howard B. Keck and trained by Charlie Whittingham, finished second to Okavango in the San Pasqual, sixth in the Santa Maria and fifth in the Santa Anita Handicap which was run on a muddy track.

Whittingham has trained two other entries, Toujours Pret who campaigned only in Europe before this winter's Santa Anita meeting, and Trojan Bronze, winner of the San Marcos 'Cap earlier in the meeting.

Matt Maslowski says he wants to leave the WFL

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Matt Maslowski, who caught 48 passes for 957 yards and seven touchdowns for the Florida Blazers last season, says he wants to leave the World Football League.

But he and his teammates proved that money isn't everything to professional football players, Maslowski said Thursday.

The Blazers, who lost by a point to Birmingham in the championship World Bowl, were never paid after Sept. 9 except for a cut of gate receipts in the title game.

"This proves athletes aren't really as money-hungry as they may seem," said Maslowski.

"We received checks from the league in October, but when we went to cash them, they bounced. After I deposited the check, the league said it had stopped payment on them because of insufficient funds. I framed it. It's in my study.

Maslowski, now a free agent, says he's negotiating with the San Diego Chargers of the National Football League.

Japanese coach predicts upset in volleyball match

LOS ANGELES — A Japanese volleyball coach predicts an international upset when Japan, gold medal winner in the 1972 Olympics, meets a U.S. All-Star team in an Olympic preview Sunday at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

"The Americans definitely can win," says Suguru Furuichi, who came from his native Tokyo in January to train the U.S. team for the international exhibition starting at 8 p.m.

Furuichi, who coached Tokyo's Waseda University to second place in Japanese collegiate competition in 1974, says the Americans are now at least as good as the East German team which battled Japan in the five-game Olympic finals in 1972.

"The Americans are strong, they have played together regularly and they are very good at deceiving their opponents," Furuichi says. "Their passing, setting, spiking and blocking are much better than a few months ago."

At least seven members of the All-Star squad should qualify for the 10-man national team which will represent the U.S. in Olympic trial competition this summer, according to Furuiche, who also will train the U.S. national team.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

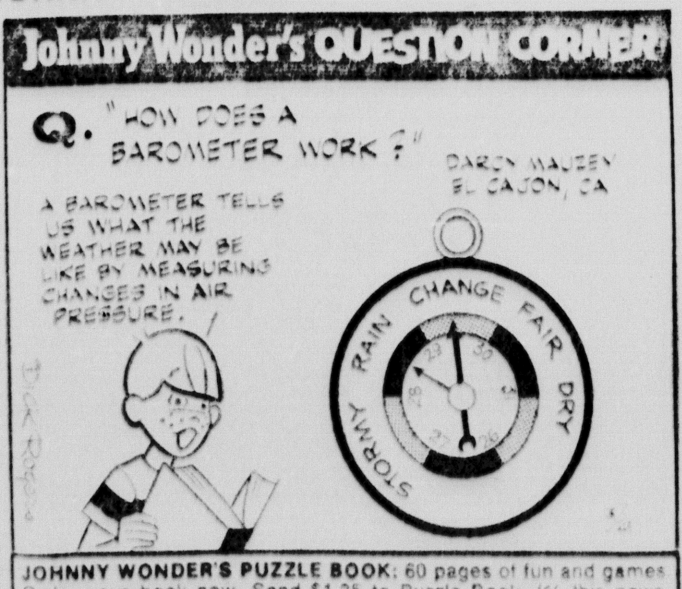
JOHNNY WONDER



Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER
Q. "HOW DOES A BAROMETER WORK?"
DARCY MAUZEY EL CAJON, CA
A BAROMETER TELLS US WHAT THE WEATHER MAY BE LIKE BY MEASURING CHANGES IN AIR PRESSURE.
STORMY RAIN CHANGE FAIR DRY

JOHNNY WONDER'S PUZZLE BOOK: 60 pages of fun and games. Order your book now. Send $1.25 to Puzzle Book, (c/o this newspaper), P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019

A barometer is an instrument that measures the pressure of air.

The ocean of air above us pushes down on the earth with a great deal of force. Just as a scale measures the pressure of your weight, so the barometer tells the weight of the air above it.

There are different kinds of barometers.

Barometers called "aneroid barometers" record changes in air pressure by using an airtight box from which most of the air has been removed.

Changes in air pressure cause the box to expand or contract. These changes control a pointer on a dial.

When we read a mercury barometer, we read the height of mercury in a glass tube. Changes in air pressure cause the mercury to rise or fall.

Barometers are very useful to the weatherman.

When the mercury falls rapidly, he knows a storm is quite likely to follow. A "rising barometer" oftens foretells better weather.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first younster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/0 this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

World of animals

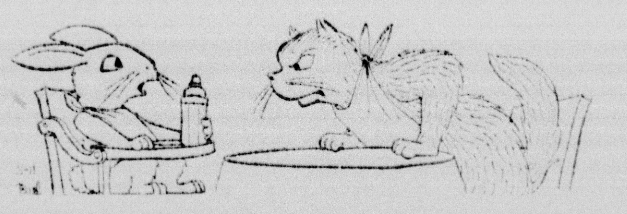
Animal adoption not always successful

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is a cat's milk about the same as a rabbit's? I was wondering because of this incredible story I read. It had a picture, too, of a mother cat adopting an infant rabbit to raise, because it had lost its kittens. It raised it, too. So I guess the milk is about the same, or it couldn't have?—C.C.

DEAR C.C.: Assuming first the cat is in the mood to care for, not chomp on, an infant of another species, there's still a lot that can render such an effort unsucessful. Environmental factors, including protection against excessive noise, light, untenable temperatures and humidity, and so on, are important. The wee one must be strong enough when adopted to stand the stress of such change, and be able to fight for its life. It must find (and latch onto) the food supply, and must carry on while adjusting to an unusual environmental situation. The stronger it is initially, the greater variation it can accept nutritionally and still survive.

There is a considerable difference in a cat's milk and a rabbit's. The rabbit's is considerably richer and much highe in fat and protein, though lower in carbohydrates. To maintain its nutritional requirements, then, the nursing rabbit would need more frequent feedings from its foster mother, requiring a larger volume of milk. These factors as well as the change in milk solids would tend to cause potentially serious digestive disturbances.



Should the youngster survive all this through the weaning period, it would at least at that time need to graduate to a diet more in keeping with that of its own plant-eating predecessors, rabbit pellets, hay and similar goodies which its foster parent would have to consider somewhat strange.

DEAR DR. MILLER: For the last week, my dog is acting very, very strangely. He's very nervous and jumpy. Sometimes he jumped up like he sat on a tack. He keeps looking behind him. If he's being followed it must be a ghost. I never see anything. He shows no signs of sickness and eats like a horse. What's with him? Don't tell me he's crazy — I know that — but it's never affected him this way before. —E.D.

DEAR E.D.: If the condition persisted, you should have long since had him checked out by his own veterinarian. Such a condition could indicate something as serious as a brain tumor — or a much more common problem bringing up the rear.

Ship prototype

Perhaps the first vessel powered by twin-screw propellers similar to those that drive modern ships was the "Little Juliana," a steamboat invented by Col. John Stevens that chugged from New York to Hoboken in May, 1804.

Bridge

Correct play 1,000-1 shot

By Oswald v James Jacoby

Here is a good hand with which to test your friends ability to defend. However; don't laugh at those who fail the test. We doubt if one bridge player in a thousand will make the winning play.

South wins the first club, leads the nine of diamonds and lets it ride after West plays low. If East also plays low, he is a bridge genius among bridge genii. If he goes up with the queen, he is just an ordinary player. Yet some real study will show that the play of the queen can't succeed in defeating the contract.

East should know that his partner holds the ace of diamonds because there would be no reason for South to lead any card but the ace if he held it.

How many diamonds does South hold? Probably exactly two. He has bid two suits and notrump. He surely has 11 cards outside of diamonds. So if East plays low, South will lead a second diamond, play dummy's jack and watch the hand collapse since South will never be able to bring in the diamond suit.

Citrus trees: utility and beauty

Who isn't looking for a tree or shrub that is both beautiful and functional? In the Golden State, there is no lack of plants that provide both — among the most popular choices are citrus varieties, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Citrus is characterized by dense, glossy, evergreen foliage. Waxy-white flowers perfume the garden and the colorful fruit can be left on the tree for many weeks for decorative value. Best yet, citrus can be enjoyed throughout most parts of the state — whether the garden is large or small.

Nurserymen have accommodated today's city-sized properties by introducing dwarf varieties of all the most popular citrus fruits. Dwarf citrus lends itself to planting in smaller modern landscapes, in milder winter climates; and the smaller editions are excellent specimens for growing in tubs and containers.

A hedge of dwarf citrus is a distinctive addition to the garden, while an espaliered lemon becomes a unique focal point against a fence or wall. What could be more fun than having a dwarf lime growing in a tub on the patio, where owner and guests could pick fresh limes for adding zest to refreshing drinks?

Residents of mobile home parks, and apartment owners — on their high rise balconies can grow and enjoy citrus fruits — by utilizing the dwarf varieties in containers. A real charmer — and a conversation piece —is the Kumquat, whose shrubby character is enhanced by an abundance of small oblong orange fruits.

Most citrus require a fair share of sun and warmth to ripen fruits. Those gardening outside the so-called citrus belts should insure results by planting in warm spots of the garden — against a south wall is one good place. (If you're not sure where the warmest spot is — watch your pet. Most frequently he will lie in the warmest of garden spots.

Dwarf citrus, in tubs, will mature fruits more readily than trees grown in the ground, which could be a key to good fruit in cooler parts of the state.

The largest selection of citrus varieties — both standard and dwarf types — is generally available at this time of year. While all types may not be available in a given area, nurseries will offer the ones best for local conditions.

Indoor gardening

By JANET TARA

Since your plants are potted and live inside, they are not fertilized by nature. You are their food source.

Be careful with new plants and those in low light. Fertilizer can damage a plant that is trying to adjust to new nonnursery conditions and one in a low-light situation that is not functioning actively cannot use up the extra food.

Fertilizing is best done in small doses. When you are in doubt about quantity, cut it in half. It is easier to refertilize undernourished plants than to repair the damage caused by overfertilizing.

Choose from liquid, powder, tablet or concentrated fertilizers. Good results can also be obtained from fish emulsion.

Fertilize about once a month during the warmer months from spring to fall. Plants need rest, during periods when there is no new growth, so don't fertilize in the winter months. It gives both you and them a break.

Some insulation tips for the attic

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — When I went up in the attic the other day for the first time in a few weeks, I discovered several places where the vapor barrier of the wall insulation was torn. I have no idea how this happened, but I would like to know how to patch it.

A. — The usual procedure is to strip a piece of vapor barrier from a scrap section of the insulation left over when the installation was made. If you have no such left-over pieces, use polyethylene to cover the broken area. Tape the patch to keep it securely in place. While you are at it, check to see whether there are any other breaks. Even a small opening in a vapor barrier is enough to permit the entrance of moisture.

Q. — I'm having an insulation job done in our house. It's the kind where they blow in the insulation. I have gotten three estimates. They're pretty much the same. But a neighbor tells me it's better to hire a contractor who pays his installers by the hour. He says he doesn't know why this is so, but he heard it from someone years ago. Can you enlighten me?

A. — The theory is that if an insulation installer is paid by the square footage rather than by the hour, he will hurry the job just to get it done. However, if an installer has integrity and pride in his work, he will do good work no matter how he is paid.

A brand new Andy Lang booklet is "Saving Money in Insulating." It can be obtained by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.

Gardener's checklist

Ceanothus and other California natives are in bloom this month. These make easy-to-care-for landscape shrubs.

For a shady corner, Azaleas are an excellent choice. Nurseries have plants in bloom, making selection easy—and fun.

Tree Roses are exciting accents for the garden. Now is a good time to plant them.

Now is the time to plant Transvaal Daisies for bloom later in sprng and summer. Assure good drainage for the plants.

Late March is one of the most prolific bloom periods for Azaleas. Shopping for them now enables you to select the exact shade of color you desire.

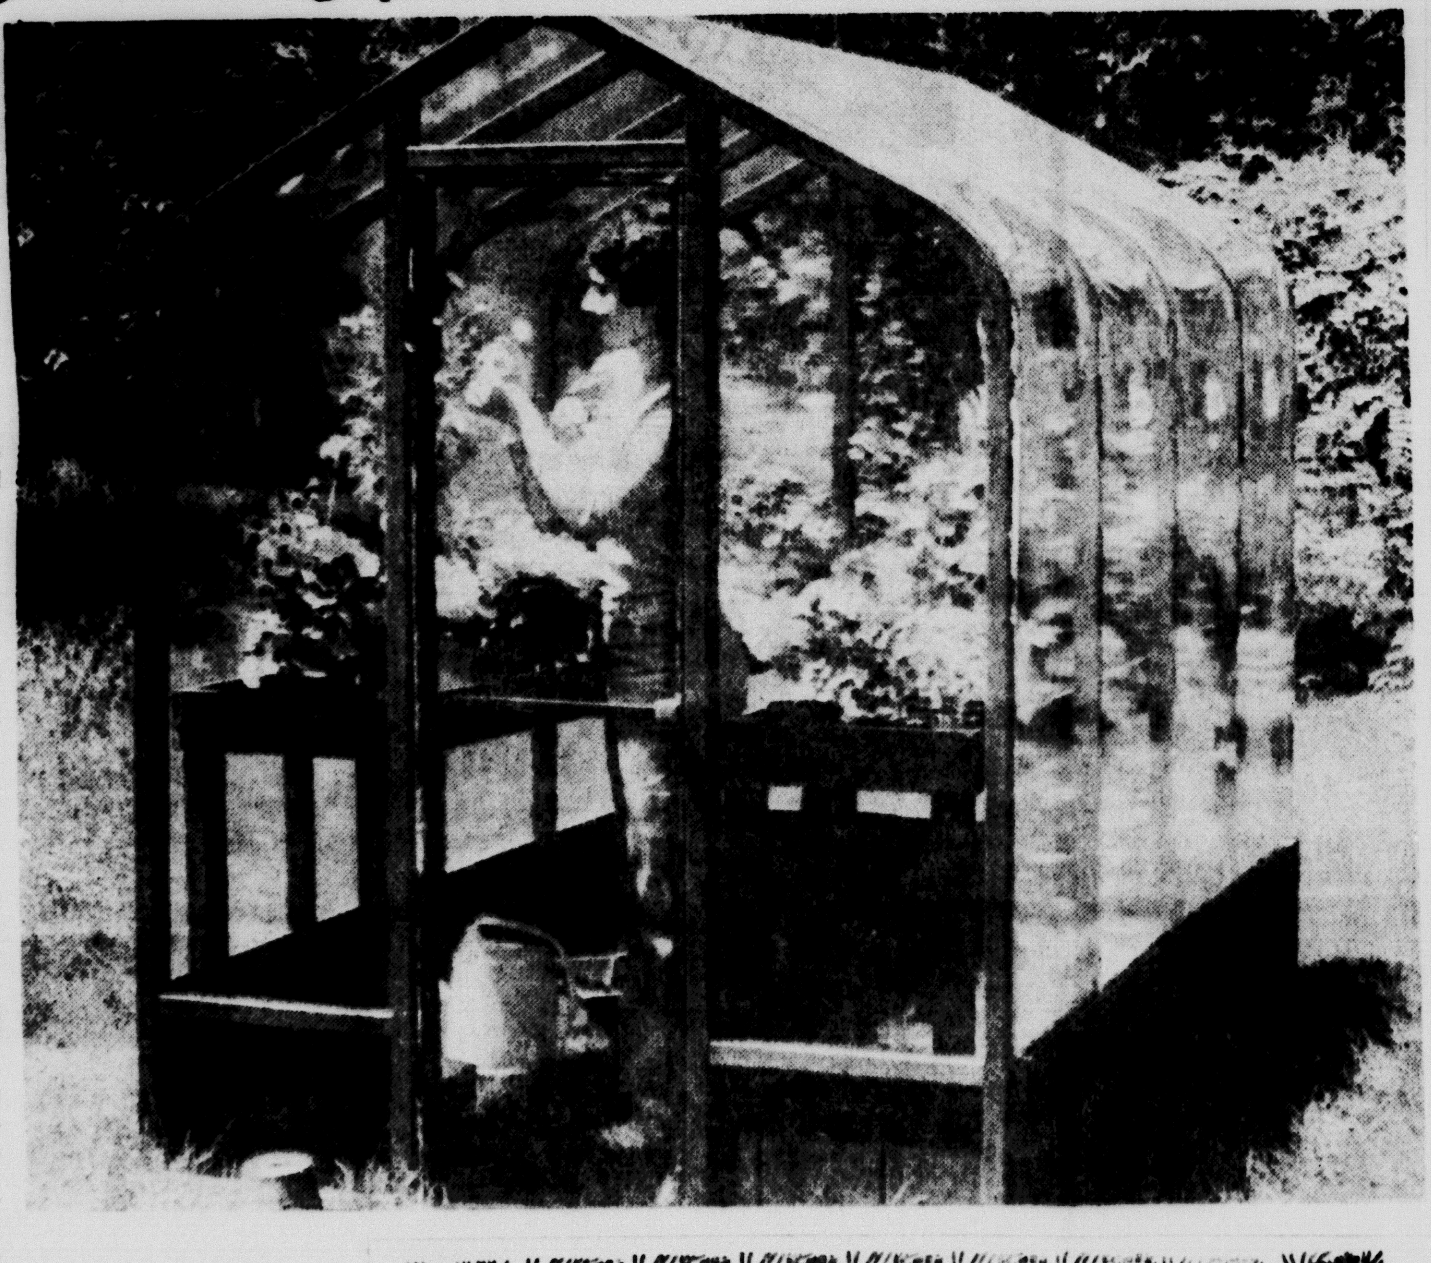
Double gardening pleasure with a greenhouse

By STEVE ELLINGSON



With today's fuel shortage and soaring grocery prices, this could become a must structure for every backyard in America.

And for those who love growing things, whether vegetables for the family table or ornamental plants for pleasure, here's the perfect cradle for new life. You can give seedlings a headstart for outdoor planting or equip the greenhouse with reletively inexpensive heating and cooling devices for year-round use. It will extend the growing season in even the coldest climes.

There are so many advantages to our Gothic-style greenhouse that we just can't list them all here. Any amateur can tackle this $75 project with our step-by-step plan and detailed bill of materials. It's shatterproof since it's covered with inexpensive, heavy-gauge polyethylene sheeting (available at nurseries and lumber yards) . . . just staple the covering onto the wood frame. Vents are provided for flow-thru ventilation. It's compact (5'x8'), yet allows the greenthumber plenty of headroom inside. Since it's a movable structure, you can take it with you when you move . . . it doesn't require a foundation or building permit. Plans are even included for two potting benches. The only tools needed to complete the project are a saber saw, drill and staple gun.

To obtain Greenhouse Plan No. 557, send $2.25 (includes postage & handling). If airmail is desired, send $2.50 by cash, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Pomona Progress-Bulletin Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, California 91409.

New! Our PATTERNS FOR BETTER LIVING book picturing more than 500 woodworking & handicraft projects for your leisure time . . . $1.00 (add 25 cents for postage).

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE T.S. No. 74-20578

On April 22, 1975, at 10:00 A.M., FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION, as duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust dated October 4, 1971 recorded Oct. 14, 1971, as inst. No. 837, in book T7249, page 959, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, State of California will sell at public auction to highest bidder for cash (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) at the entrance of the Los Angeles County Courthouse at 501 West First Street, in the City of Los Angeles, California all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and State described as:

Lot 31 of Tract no. 16109, in the City of Pomona, as per map recorded in Book 803, pages 5 through 8 inclusive of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 2073 Lee Place, Pomona, California 91766.

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein.

Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, to-wit: $22,583.56, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, if any, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust.

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located.

ADVANTAGES OF BUYING A '74 128 FIAT FROM FRANK WHITE IMPORST — LOWER PRICES. NO CATALISTIC MUFFLERS. RUNS ON ANY GAS. COME IN & LET OUR COURTEOUS SALESMEN TELL YOU ALL THE EXTRA ADVANTAGES.

Plus Savings

Only the designing ingenuity and engineering excellence of FIAT could have produced this incredible subcompact: FIAT 128. The economy car that offers all the advantages of smallness with none of the disadvantages. It's shorter in length than VW — but it's bigger inside. That's the result of mounting the front-wheel drive engine transversely so that it occupies just 20% of the total interior — leaving fully 80% for passenger room and a 13 cu. ft. trunk. The 4 door model has the same interior and exterior dimensions. And space isn't the only advantage.
Discovered why the FIAT 128 has won more international Car-Of-The-Year awards in Europe than any other car in history.

STANDARD EQUIPMENT INCLUDES:
● 4-speed Transmission ● Front Disc Brakes ● Dual brake System ● Radial Ply Tires ● Reclining Bucket Seats ● wheel Independent Suspension ● Unitized Body Construction ● Flow-Through Ventilation.
